

EDWARD ENDS BRIEF REIGN BY SIGNING BILL OF ABDICATION

Expect Sales To Pass 20 Million Mark

50 PER CENT GAIN SHOWN IN REPORT

Business Review Sent To Chamber Of Commerce By Bureau Of Census

Unofficial prediction that retail sales in Santa Ana during this year would be greatly over the $20,000,000 mark was made today with the receipt here of an exclusive report from the Bureau of Census, U. S. Department of Commerce, that showed retail sales in Santa Ana in 1935 amounted to $19,717,000.

Gain Revealed
This figure, it was pointed out by Secretary Howard L. Wood of the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce, to whom the official report was sent, showed there was a gain of more than 50 per cent over the retail sales of 1933, which amounted to $10,213,000.

A statistical review covering 597 local stores was accompanied by a letter to Secretary Wood from F. A. Gosnell, chief statistician of the bureau, who explained that the survey for 1935 was made during the first eight months of this year in accordance with a nationwide census of businesses. He said at least 3,000,000 business establishments in the nation were contacted, and highly praised the local chamber of commerce for its support and co-operation in the undertaking.

Figures Conservative
"It is certain," Wood said, "that these figures are ultra-conservative. I make this assertion because of unofficial business reports with which I have come in contact during the last 12 months, and I firmly believe that figures for this year will show a tremendous increase in sales over 1935. There is no doubt, but that the 1936 sales will be well over the $20,000,000 mark, and will continue to be on the increase."

With the number of food stores leading in the report, there were 12 classifications included. The total payroll for the 597 stores during 1935 was placed at $1,638,000, as compared with $1,258,000 for 1934.

Store Classifications
The various classifications of stores, the number of each counted, and their respective sales: One hundred and forty-one food stores, $2,253,000; 60 eating, drinking places, $608,000; general stores (with food), seven, general merchandise, $1,172,000; 67, apparel group, $1,472,000; 79, filling stations, $2,568,000; 33, furniture-household, $1,139,000; 27, lumber-building hardware, $1,372,000; 14 drug stores, $635,000; seven package liquor stores, $87,000; and 87 other stores, $922,000.

Among the interesting features of the report was the fact that sales in the automotive group amounted to approximately $450,000 more than those in the food stores group.

BRIDGES SEEKS N. Y. DOCK AID

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 11.—(UP)—Harry Bridges, leader of striking west coast longshoremen, was to leave by plane today for New York where he will urge eastern dock workers to give active support to the Pacific coast maritime strike.

Bridges is scheduled to speak at a mass meeting of eastern longshoremen at Madison Square Garden, December 14. He will make a personal appeal to the workers to refuse to move cargo on Pacific coast ships.

Bridges' departure from the muddled west coast strike scene will leave the unions without their key spokesman just as peace hopes had reached a new high, and a campaign to end the costly walk-out before Christmas was gaining momentum.

Edward F. McGrady, assistant secretary of labor, still anticipated would be able to bring union spokesmen and operators of deep-sea offshore vessels together for a peace conference before the weekend is over.

ONCE FRIENDS — NOW ENEMIES

Aimee Semple McPherson and Reba Crawford, famed woman evangelists, were close friends when this picture was snapped. Now, they're as far apart as the poles. Mrs. McPherson is defending a $1,080,000 slander suit brought against her by Mrs. Crawford.

CAR INJURIES NATIONAL JOB FATAL TO MAN CENSUS URGED

Tilton Dewey Hennings, 38, died last night in St. Joseph's hospital, as the result of injuries sustained a week ago, when, with Mrs. Hennings, he was run down and mangled by an automobile in Laguna Beach.

Mrs. Hennings, who sustained a broken leg and numerous other injuries in the same accident, is at the family home, 1322 Catalina street, Laguna Beach, under the care of Dr. A. H. Wightman.

Circumstances surrounding the fatality are the subject of comment in Laguna Beach. As the Hennings, with Traffic Officer Jack Blakey, were grouped around the Hennings car, discussing a previous minor collision in which but slight damage was done, another car driven by Fred T. Reed, occasional employee of the Laguna post office, crashed into the group, hitting the Hennings and narrowly missing Blakey in the smash.

Given first aid, Hennings was rushed to St. Joseph's where, after a six-day fight for life, he expired last evening.

Summoned by telegraph, numerous relatives were at the bedside prior to death, including G. F. Hennings of Albuquerque, N. M.; Walter Hennings, Mrs. E. C. Gallimore, of El Paso, Texas, grandmother; Mrs. Joe Clary, of Deming, N. M., and Laguna Beach relatives. Coroner Earl Abbey announced that an inquest is pending.

F. D. R. STOPS FOR TRINIDAD VISIT

PORT AU SPAIN, TRINIDAD, Dec. 11.—(UP)—President Roosevelt arrived in this British crown colony today to make his last stop before reaching Charleston, S. C., on December 14 or 15.

The cruiser Indianapolis, carrying Mr. Roosevelt on his 14,000-mile peace voyage to South America and return, anchored in the outer harbor for official ceremonies. With it was the escort cruiser Chester.

The two ships will remain in port six hours, refuel and continue their voyage to the United States. Meanwhile, the president will pay official calls ashore.

BANK RESOURCES UP
SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 11.—(UP)—The Federal Reserve bank of San Francisco today reported total resources of $899,653,000 as of December 9 compared with $886,320,000 as of December 2.

Total deposits were $508,167,000 compared with $494,077,000. Ratio of total reserves to deposits and federal reserve note liabilities combined was 76.4 per cent compared with 75.7 per cent.

REPUBLIC IS AIM OF NEW IRISH BILLS

Measures Remove Name Of King From All Internal Activities Of Irish

DUBLIN, Dec. 11.—(UP)—Two constitutional bills making the Irish Free State virtually a republic in internal affairs, although still nominally a member of the British empire, were introduced in the Dail Eireann today by President Eamon De Valera.

The bills, introduced in connection with King Edward's abdication, amend the old constitution but do not introduce the long awaited new constitution. De Valera, replying to a question by William T. Cosgrave, opposition leader, said:

"We do not intend to sever our connection with the British commonwealth, since article one of the constitution remains untouched."

De Valera explained that provisions limiting the king's functions within the Free State are intended to "bring the law in accordance with the actual facts of the situation."

"This is a matter which affects ourselves alone," he said. "We are giving effect to the wishes of our own people."

The measures remove the king's name from all internal governmental activities of the Free State, retaining it only in connection with matters affecting external relations with other countries.

De Valera said the speaker of the Dail would divide the duties of the governor-general, representative of the king, whose office would be abolished.

EDWARD READY FOR DEPARTURE

LONDON, Dec. 11.—(UP)—King Edward, spending his last hours as king emperor, bade farewell to his staff at Fort Belvedere today and ordered his personal airplane pilot to stand by for a flight to the continent.

May Go To Zurich
There was a rumor, unconfirmed, that he might leave for Zurich, Switzerland, and go into seclusion, not some Alpine winter resort.

The Duke of Kent, his "baby" brother and sole sympathizer in the royal family with his romance, was the first visitor today.

The duke arrived at 11:45 a. m. Winston Churchill arrived at 1 p. m. Churchill last week indicated willingness to form a new government to support Edward in his desire to marry a commoner.

Churchill and the duke had lunch with the retiring king.

Flight Ready
Flight Lieut. Edward H. Fielden, "captain of the king's flight," Edward's pilot, received orders to stand by at Hendon airfield, in the North London suburbs, today and tomorrow, Edward's own plane was to fly there.

His reign of 325 days, one of the shortest in his kingdom's long history.

STORMY MEETING BETWEEN EDWARD, FATHER RECALLED

LONDON, Dec. 11.—(UP)—Intimate friends of Edward VIII today described an historic meeting between the abdicated monarch and his late father, King George V, when the king told his son to give up Mrs. Wallis Simpson.

The stormy meeting was just before his death last January. He was extremely fond of his father and took his death harder than any of the king's other sons.

Tour Recalled
Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin's comment in commons yesterday that because Edward looks so young many forget he is a mature man, recalled for many impressions of his recent tour to Wales. He simply seemed so very young and slight—too young for his job.

He flew into a rage at the time, partly because he was suffering from a cold and partly because the police mismanaged the arrangements.

ENGLAND'S NEW KING

With Edward VIII giving his assent to the bill legalizing his abdication, his brother, the Duke of York, becomes ruler today, taking the title of George VI. The new king will be proclaimed by royal heralds in medieval garb tomorrow in the court yard of St. James' palace.

LOYALISTS IN OVIEDO ATTACK

MADRID, Dec. 11.—(UP)—Government forces launched a new attack today on Oviedo, Spain's great munitions manufacturing center.

Official dispatches from Gijon said the Loyalists forces had the city almost surrounded. Except for a road through El Naranco and El Escampero, the official reports said, Oviedo was cut off.

Government troops invaded the rebel territory in Asturias, attacking rebel reserves with tanks and machine guns. The militia was reported to be meeting with success all along the Asturian front.

In the general attack so far they have taken El Rincon De La Arca in the Grullas sector, and the towns of La Quintana, Vereda De Olivares, and Montecanales in the Sobredillo sector, government reports say.

The Madrid front remained quiet. Heavy rains, snow and freezing weather continued to cause suffering among both rebels and government forces in the trenches.

Louis De La Pree, 34, correspondent of the Paris Soir, who was wounded when a French embassy airplane was shot down at Guadalajara Tuesday, died in a hospital early today.

NEW RULER PROCLAIMED BY ROYAL HERALDS TOMORROW; EX-KING READY TO DEPART

LONDON, Dec. 11.—(UP)—Edward VII ended his brief reign today by giving his royal assent to the bill legalizing his abdication. His brother, the Duke of York, 41 next Monday, became the King Emperor to rule, as George VI, one-fourth the world's territory and people.

HECTIC BATTLE ON FOR RANCH

Title to 57 acres known as the Leslie ranch trembled in the balance all day yesterday in as hectic a day it is said, as title company officials of this county have ever known.

Legal entanglements, including judgments, sales, deeds, executions, interlocutory decrees and other weighty court decrees, in a vast array were a barrier upon which checks for various sums of money were thrust by men sparring for the purchase of the property, valued at $50,000 or $100,000.

The story back of yesterday's situation goes back into the early days of the orange industry. Charles C. L. Leslie, old timer at West Orange, developed his property by planting Valencia oranges and walnuts. Twenty acres of the 57 are located on North Flower street south of West Orange road, at the edge of the city limits. The remainder lies north of West Orange road on the east side of the Santa Ana river.

In 1931, Leslie found himself in financial difficulties. He borrowed $45,000 from the Federal Finance company of Santa Ana on a trust deed. At about that time also, Leslie was sued in Los Angeles by H. O. Jones, with whom Leslie was involved in a stock company affair, with the result that Jones got judgment and brought about a sale under execution that resulted in a purchase of Jones' interests by E. E. Pellegrin.

The records show this sale as having taken place October 13, 1932, several months after the Federal Finance company had foreclosed upon its trust deed.

The Federal Finance company seemed to be in full title to the property until the early part of this year when Leslie brought action in the superior court here alleging that the Federal Finance company had agreed that he might assert his title on payment of all the money coming to the finance company, with credit to be given Leslie for whatever earnings the orchards may have had since 1932.

This matter went into court before Judge Scofield, ending in an interlocutory decree December 10, 1935. Under that decree Leslie was to have up to and including December 10, 1936, in which to pay the Federal Finance company, claims in actual cash, amounting to $57,000.

It seems, however, that in asserting his rights to the property, Leslie revived the Pellegrin decree. Pellegrin asserted that if Leslie had any rights in the ranch, those rights were transferred to Pellegrin back in 1932. In other words, Leslie's suit had set up the dormant title held by Pellegrin.

Real estate agents state that they have made many proposals to settle the matter.

Not To Meet Edward
"Mrs. Simpson will be here at least through tomorrow. She has no plans to meet Edward," Leslie for whatever reason, declined to answer the threatening letters to Mrs. Simpson which police said were being received. Mrs. Simpson's spokesman replied he had not seen them.

Mrs. Simpson's health is excellent. She might take a drive in the afternoon, it was said, but had no definite plans.

Lord Brownlow, lord-in-waiting to Edward, probably will leave Cannes tonight or tomorrow, the spokesman added but had no plans to see Edward.

RESOLUTION ASKS FOR CROP CONTROL

PASADENA, Cal., Dec. 11.—(UP)—A resolution asking continued crop control and pledging support of 3 million farm families behind an effort to obtain additional legislation along this line, was introduced today at the American Farm Bureau federation convention.

The resolution, it was said, had the support of almost all the membership except farmers from northeastern states. This group fought the measure in the resolutions committee hearing, but, being far outnumbered, was not expected to put up a fight on the floor.

The resolution reaffirmed the federation's support of the A. A. A. soil conservation and domestic allotment act programs and asked new legislation to "assure farmers of America their rightful share of the national income."

YOUTH IS SENT TO PRESTON TO SERVE 2 YEARS

Jerry Mahoney, 18, former Pittsburgh buckster's helper, and gas station attendant, who was washed out of his job by the floods of last year and then "bummed" his way across country to Anaheim, where he committed a burglary, today was sent to the Preston School of Industry at Ingle for two years.

The boy pleaded for freedom to return to Pittsburgh, but Judge James L. Allen told him the Preston authorities would make a man of him, teaching him a trade and surrounding him with wholesome conditions. He could earn his way out of the school within a year by studying hard, the court told Jerry.

"But I may learn other things there besides a trade," protested Jerry. "I read about three boys there shooting somebody. I might learn that."

"Oh," said his honor. "Then maybe we'd better send you to San Quentin if you're going to take that attitude."

Jerry decided he wasn't going to take that attitude after all. Leslie Wright, who pleaded guilty to passing a fraudulent check for $9 to Marie Forrest of Santa Ana, was granted probation for two years, on condition that he quit drinking and make restitution for various checks he passed. He was also ordered to remain four months in the county jail, while being cured of the drinking habit.

WAR DANGERS TOLD COUNCIL

GENEVA, Dec. 11.—(UP)—An "international war" already exists in Spain and threatens to spread into a general European conflict, Spanish Foreign Minister Julio Alvarez Del Vayo, warned an extraordinary session of the League of Nations' council today.

Del Vayo criticized the Italian and German assistance allegedly given the Spanish rebels, now at the gates of Madrid. Thousands of their troops are reported to be fighting with the insurgents, with others ready to go.

The foreign minister said with this alleged breach of the non-intervention accord among the nations toward Spain's civil war, plus recognition by Italy and Germany of the rebel "government," the conflict no longer was an internal civil matter.

"An international war already exists," he said.

NEW OFFICERS OF ROYAL ARCH MASONS INSTALLED BY GRAND HIGH PRIEST LAST EVENING

New officers of the Santa Ana chapter, Royal Arch Masons, were installed last night at a meeting held in Masonic Temple. The installation was conducted by Grand High Priest Leonard E. Thomas of Los Angeles, following a dinner served by members of the Order of DeMolay.

In addition to Grand High Priest Thomas, the grand lodge of the order in California was represented last night by Grand King L. D. Butterworth, member of the Santa Ana lodge who is living in San Diego at present.

Elected officers of the chapter who were installed included: James Walker, high priest; H. G. Lyman, king; Roscoe G. Hewitt, treasurer and Roy Roepke, secretary. Appointive officers installed at the same time included: C. H. Smith, captain of the host; A. Hatfield, principal sejourner; William McMay, Royal Arch captain; Chas. Coats, third veil; D. McMillen, second veil; J. W. Jones, first veil.

EDWARD ENDS BRIEF REIGN

always wished, was expected to leave his country in voluntary exile tonight or tomorrow.

Sovereign at Home
His brother, the new sovereign, was at his leased home at 145 Piccadilly when he became king, busy reading and responding to telegrams of congratulation. His queen, Elizabeth, the Scots earl's kingdom of England and Scotland, was seeing to the studies of the 16-year-old girl who will be queen unless a son is born after six childless years—to the royal family.

Little Elizabeth, an imperious girl who looks much like Queen Mother Mary, was with her sister Margaret Rose, the second heir, six years old.

They knew something big was happening in the big folks' lives and had been told that their father was ascending the throne.

"What's happening to Uncle David?" they asked.

Empire Goes On
The kingdom and empire go on. The mother of parliaments has seen the passing of another king and the king reigns still while the empire, strengthened in the knowledge that it is stronger than any man, goes on. Not a ruffle except of human excitement had disturbed it in a crisis that entered history.

The new king will be proclaimed by royal heralds in the medieval garb, tomorrow in the courtyard of St. James's palace.

Preceded by trumpeters, they will march to Charing Cross, Temple Bar and the steps of the Royal Exchange at noon, and there proclaim King George as they proclaimed his brother last January when George V. Died.

Speak Against Bill
In commons, two independent labor men spoke against the abdication bill. One, James Maxton, wanted a republic. He spoke of monarchy with contempt and quoted "Humpty Dumpty" and his fall. The other, Campbell Stephens, referred to the "possibility" that the new king and queen might divorce and cause another crisis.

It was just a gesture, and the house passed the bill. Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin, a national hero for his handling of the crisis, moved the final passage.

He reminded members that the royal assent to the abdication bill would be the last act of Edward's reign.

"We will always remember with regard and affection the wholehearted service His Majesty has given the country as Prince of Wales and for a short time on the throne," he said.

Commons recessed while Lords passed the bill. The speaker, Capt. Edward Algernon Fitzroy, went over to Lords to be informed that the royal assent had been given.

New King Reigns
He returned and announced the assent. Baldwin announced that the accession council of the privy council would meet at 11 a. m. tomorrow to proclaim the new king. He asked members to attend in special session at 2:45 p. m. tomorrow (8:45 a. m. EST) to take the oath of office to the king. Then the house adjourned. A king was dead, to the mother of parliaments, and a new king reigned as had so many before him—but reigned, as this emergency proved, by consent of his people.

Sir Donald Bradley Somervell, attorney general, said that as far as the abdication is concerned, Edward VIII will cease to draw any revenues to which the crown is entitled. However, he hinted that possible legislation would be provided for Edward.

"What action the house might subsequently take is outside today's discussion," he said.

Sir John Simon, home secretary, commenting on the fact that Edward's message of abdication omitted the phrase "defender of the faith," said:

Title Omitted
"Whatever its history, the title is one of the traditional titles of the monarch. However, the fact is that His Majesty did not include that description in the document."

Therefore, he explained, it was similarly omitted from the abdication bill. Laborite attempts to ascertain financial concessions by the state to Edward failed. G. Hardie asked:

"What is this gentleman going to get now that he has given up his job? What financial provisions will he carry with him the income from certain estates said to be his?"

The deputy speaker, Sir Dennis Herbert, replied that a discussion of money would be out of order. Baldwin visited the king at his residence, 145 Piccadilly. He was accompanied by his parliamentary private secretary, Capt. Thomas Dugdale.

Baldwin Cheered
A crowd cheered and shouted for Baldwin as he stepped from his car and quickly entered the house. The throng continued cheering long after the door had closed behind him.

Baldwin remained less than an hour.

Baldwin, smiling cheerfully for the first time since the crisis, acknowledged the cheers. Baldwin beamed as the crowd shouted "Good old Stanley" and swarmed around his automobile, forcing it to hold to a snail's pace.

Baldwin's car hardly had disappeared when the Duke of Gloucester arrived and inclined his head in answer to the crowd's cheers.

SILENCE CALLED NOT GOLDEN PASADENA, CAL. (UP)—Dr. Herbert Rowell Stolz of Oakland told the Western Teachers Association that as far as "silence is golden" is concerned the time has come for teachers and parents to get off the gold standard. Silence, he insisted, imposes too many repressions on children.

The capitol in Washington, D. C., required 70 years to complete.

to sell portions and all of the ranch, but have found the legal entanglements so difficult to overcome that nobody could deliver title. It seems that whoever bought the property could not get title until the three-sided legal ownership was settled.

Yesterday arrived, the last day for payment of the Federal Finance company claim. It is reported that several different groups and two or three individuals went into the Orange County Title company and tried to wind up the deal. Senator Olson of Los Angeles, representing Leslie, was here all yesterday afternoon. Obviously if his client was to get anything, cash to pay off the Federal Finance company must be forthcoming—all cash—and the Pellegrin claim must be met.

The story today is that the title company has checks on hand for the deal's completion, but that no final settlement was reached. The day went by, and the finance company was not paid.

It is expected that Attorneys Forgy, Reinhaus and Forgy will go before Judge Scovel today and ask for a final decree, claiming that the period set by the interdictory decree last June had gone by, and that, therefore, complete title rests in the finance company.

history, was drawing to its tragic end.

He could look out on Windsor's Great park grounds of the castle which his ancestor William the Conqueror built and which such men as Henry VIII and William III, warriors, statesmen, gallants, had occupied, hope that soon he would be in France with Mrs. Wallis Warfield Simpson, twice divorced Baltimore society woman, and next spring make her his wife, as a duchess, a knight's wife, or Mrs. Windsor.

There were reports he would go eventually to Argentina to be a rancher, or buy a castle in Denmark to be a modern Hamlet, a Hamlet in plus fours and a jazz-colored sweater.

Most affected were the servants at Fort Belvedere, for those who knew Edward VIII love him. Some burst into tears when they tried to talk about his abdication.

All trunks were packed, and all the baggage labeled, at the fort during the night.

After breakfast he called members of his staff and bade them farewell.

Then he began preparing his message of farewell to his people.

RARE GUNS ARE BROUGHT HERE BY DR. HORTON

When Dr. Roy S. Horton, member of the Southern California Arms Collectors association executive committee, returned from an 8600-mile trip through 30 states with President "Buckskin Bud" Sackett of the association, recently, he brought home one of the rarest of collections—complete equipment of a gunsmith shop, left some years ago when a 101-year-old gunsmith, who owned and operated it, died.

Objective of the Horton-Sackett trip was to attend an old time rifle match, held at Laughey Park, Rising Sun, Indiana. The objective was accomplished but both men also scoured the countryside and brought back many old fire-arms and pieces of equipment to add to their fine collections, they revealed.

These old time rifle matches are unique in many different ways. Hill-billies of the surrounding country who have never been far from their cabins come to participate in the matches. Dr. Horton relates the story of one in particular who was 70 years of age and had never been farther than 25 miles away from the cabin in which he was born. Many of these people live in the same cabins which belonged to their great grandfathers and they live under much the same conditions as did those before them. Although it is hard to believe Dr. Horton states that there are people in the back woods who are not aware of the fact that the war is over. And there are many who still include gray in the menu for breakfast.

"The Kentucky Rifle" by John W. Dillen is a story of the origin and development of a purely American type of fire arm and Dr. Horton has in his possession a personally autographed copy of this book. Although Mr. Dillen has written a book on rifles he has a very valuable collection of violins, and in this collection are 47 old masters. The people of today do not realize the true value of the old Kentucky rifle and its importance in the making of the frontier.

Dr. Horton plans to build a replica of the old Gunsmiths of T. D. Bartley which is in Sandusky, Ohio. It is to be constructed in back of the Horton home and will house Dr. Horton's rare collection of fire arms.

The speeders were Francis McCarter, 203 1/2 West 10th street, Santa Ana, $6; Paul Atchison, Los Angeles, $6; Harold C. Sperry, 608 West First, Santa Ana, $5; Dale W. McDonald, 305 North Ross, Santa Ana, $8, to be worked out; Herbert Cilley, Long Beach, $8; Calvin M. Gilbert, 1153 West Eighth, Santa Ana, $8, and Fred Eric H. Walker, 416 East Sixth, Santa Ana, $10.

Boulevard-stop jumpers who paid $2 each were Otto Ahlers, Route 4, Anaheim; Edward Brady, Route 2, Orange; Jose Palomino, El Modena; Burbin Graves, 915 West Pine, Santa Ana; Chester Tallman, 337 Beverly place, Santa Ana; Chester Stillings, Route 4, Santa Ana; William Lindner, Huntington Beach, and Richard Fitzpatrick, Dana Point. Roscoe Killo, Santa Ana, and the Pan Pacific Piling company, Wilmington, paid $1 each for illegal parking. Arnold Jackson, Alabama, transient, and John Storm, Oregon transient, were given suspended sentences of 10 days each and ordered out of town. After they were found "mooning" here, they were charged with vagrancy.

New Service Slated By Post Office

Windows at the Santa Ana post office will remain open until 6 p. m. tomorrow and the following Saturday, according to an announcement today by Postmaster Frank Harwood.

The post office generally closes at noon on Saturday but will abandon this practice until after Christmas in order that the anticipated heavy mail may be handled and delivered before Christmas day. Harwood also said that if incoming and outgoing mail continues to increase the office will remain open for several nights just prior to the holiday.

Boy Is Given Lesson In Common Sense

A 15-year-old Santa Ana high school boy, living in the 1300-block of West Washington street, yesterday was given a lesson in common sense, outside of school hours, when he sought to buy five cents' worth of chocolate drops at Mrs. L. D. Vinson's store, 102 North Ross. According to Mrs. Vinson, the boy became very arrogant after she weighed out the candy, and put it back on the scales to "see for myself." The price came to seven cents and Mrs. Vinson asked him for that amount. Then he wanted to pay only five cents. Mrs. Vinson called Officer Charles W. Wolford, "not because I was going to charge him seven cents but because he needed a new kind of lesson." He got the candy for five cents and a dollar's worth of common sense for nothing, 'tis said.

CIVIC PLAYERS SET HIGH MARK IN ATTENDANCE

With the house practically sold out for tonight's performance of "Judgment Day" in the council chamber of the city hall, Santa Ana Community Players are anticipating a record run for the current production.

Last night's play repeated the success of the opening night Wednesday, and several in the audience who had attended the first performance, declared that the Players surpassed the smoothness of that production. "Judgment Day" will have its final presentation tomorrow night, according to Robert Brown of Santa Ana Book store, where tickets are on sale.

As soon as work on the current production is ended, Players will turn their attention to polishing up the Noel Coward comedy, "Hay Fever," for presentation before an Anaheim audience. The association was approached regarding the possibility of repeating that successful play in the new Anaheim High school auditorium. All the major service and civic clubs and women's club organizations of the north county city, have an inter-related council, which is serving as a sponsor of the performance as a benefit for the cause for which the groups are allied.

This council proposed several dates to the Players' association, with that of February 13 eventually decided upon as offering no conflict with any of the artist attractions to be presented in the post-holiday season. All members of the cast have signified their intentions to take part, and it will require very little time and effort to have the play ready to give for the neighboring community.

Police today were searching for a $30 blue and white Traveller bicycle which Ted Shaw, 1503 Spurgeon, reported was stolen from him at the high school grounds yesterday, while he was attending classes.

4-H CLUB BOYS JOIN GROUP IN CATALINA TRIP

Two Orange county 4-H club members will be in a large group of persons attending the joint conventions of the California and American Farm Bureau Federations at Pasadena, who this afternoon will make a trip to Catalina Island.

The club members are Miss Pauline Crawford, senior member of the Tustin Livestock, and Harry Hoskins, senior member of the Katella Farmers of Anaheim. They were selected to represent the county at the conventions, which will come to an end today.

Workers in the office of R. D. Faherty, executive secretary of the county farm bureau, who has been at the meetings during this week, said this morning that the Catalina trip would make a fitting end to the week's activities of the 4-H representatives.

All local officials, assistants and others are expected to arrive back in Santa Ana and other cities and towns, late today.

KEN Murray SAYS:

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—Say! It looks like F. D. R. is getting back from South America just in time, from the way those 175,000 relief workers, who are to be dropped from the WPA rolls on December 15, threaten to march on Washington and disturb the peace.

Of course, December 15th is an awful time for anybody to lose a job. At that season of the year, only Santa Claus should be left holding the bag.

Oh well, from the way I look at it, if the workers do descend on the Capital, the government will have nobody but itself to blame.

Take away their shovels, and they're bound to find something else to hold on to, if only picket signs.

P. S.—You know, those relief boys would have most likely lost their jobs the day after election, except for one thing. . . . Somebody had to take up all those straw-votes.

AVOCADO PRICE UP 40 PERCENT OVER YEAR AGO

The first marketing month of this new avocado season will return Calavo avocado growers an average price approximately 40 per cent higher than did the same month of the record season two years ago, it is announced today by Calavo Growers of California.

This higher average return was achieved despite a 15 per cent greater tonnage of fruit being marketed than during the same month two years ago.

Calavo Puertes will average growers 53 per cent higher return per packed flat this last October, despite a far greater tonnage, than two years ago. This leading grade and variety will return growers, at their orchards, an average of $1.78 per packed flat from pool payments alone.

The October tonnage of all grades and all varieties amounted to 32,133 flats, being the greatest October tonnage on record.

Approximately two and a half times as many growers joined the producers' cooperative marketing program during the first two months of this season, as did during the corresponding period a year ago. Fifty-eight growers with well over 200 acres of commercial orchards joined during the recent period.

Free ice cream will be given to all members of the Kiddies club who attend the one o'clock show tomorrow afternoon.

Over the CBS network, Sunday, December 13th, 10:45 to 11:00 a.m. (KGB, San Diego and KHJ, Los Angeles) Doctor Charles Gordon Heyd, president of the American Medical Association, will give a talk, "Helping the Other Fellow." This broadcast was arranged by the National Tuberculosis association.

Wind velocity yesterday averaged 24 m.p.h., according to records at the Santa Ana Junior college meteorological station. Temperatures ranged from 42 at 2 a. m. to 72 at 3 p. m. Relative humidity was 20 per cent at 6 p. m.

Meanest Thief Steals Yule Trees

Another "meanest thief" was circulating about Anaheim this week and did away with four Christmas trees from light posts near Chatter and Los Angeles streets, it was revealed today.

The trees comprise a part of the city's Christmas street decorations, more beautiful this year than at any time in the past in the opinion of local residents. The four trees taken from the posts were replaced at his own expense by Harry Macres, who supplied the decorations.

CRIME TO BE FORUM TOPIC NEXT MONDAY

The American Crime Problem will be the subject for discussion at the Santa Ana meeting of the Orange County Public Forum next Monday evening in the High School auditorium. This entry into a new field of public affairs will be made with Dr. Charles N. Burrows as forum leader.

For the past several years he has made an intensive study of crime conditions in Iowa and has published interesting statistics of his findings.

His engagement to appear on the local forum was made in direct response to the request of the Parent-Teacher groups of the county.

In handling the subject, Dr. Burrows will consider the prevention of delinquency, the characteristics of delinquency, the economic and social causes of delinquency, the human costs of delinquency. The meeting will open at 7:30 and close at 9 p. m.

U.S.-EUROPEAN UNITED FRONT BY 1970 SEEN

PARIS (UP)—Another world war, followed by an ultimate union of all the nations of Europe and America in a common front against the imminent yellow peril, are some of the predictions made by Paul Reynaud, French statesman, economist and acknowledged godfather of French devaluation, in a copyrighted interview with the Paris paper L'Intransigeant.

"What answer to the question, 'What will Europe be like in 1970?'" "Two opposing forces are at work," Reynaud said, taking a long range view of the situation. "One tends to dissociate the powers, and the other—to unite them."

"The first is the economic disequilibrium of Europe today, which can be largely assigned to two causes: industrial over-equipment, intended to supply goods to countries which since have started producing their own, and the post-war failure of North and South America to absorb the surplus manpower of the old world."

Reynaud concluded, "we are starting on a thrilling stretch of history. But it will take a younger man than I am to see it through."

Japan which, he feels, will bring Europe to its senses.

"Japan," he declared, "is in the process of conquering not only North China, but all China. Japanese influence also extends to Siam. The future of the British outposts at Hongkong and Singapore is most uncertain."

"And what will become of Australia?" "Will Europe sense the danger in time?" Reynaud proceeded to ask. "Will nations with a few tens of millions of population realize the naïveté of their dream to govern a billion Asiatics?"

See America Drawn In America, Paul Reynaud figures, certainly will come in, as soon as European nations realize the futility of fighting one another. The common peril from the East may cement their common action.

Asked about his view as to the future of democracy, Reynaud said that the peoples of Europe would afford the luxury of freedom to the extent that their sufferings are diminished. "Liberty is necessary to their cultural development," he said, "and nothing proves it better than a view of Europe today."

"Whatever the future may bring," Reynaud concluded, "we are starting on a thrilling stretch of history. But it will take a younger man than I am to see it through."

TRACTORS DO SWITCHING

HIGHLAND, Ill., (UP)—Six "loco tractors"—the latest in railroad equipment—are being built here to be used as switch engines by an eastern railroad. The tractors are equipped with caterpillars, Diesel engines, front and rear drive as well as front and rear steering. They can be operated on either pneumatic tires or steel rails.

TRIPLITT IS HELD OVER ON CHECK CHARGE

Charles W. Triplett, 36, of 118 South Olive street, Orange, yesterday afternoon waived preliminary hearing before Justice A. W. Seay and was bound over to superior court for trial on fictitious check charges.

Triplett, prior to his arrest, drew a revolver on Officer John Eltiate and was relieved of the weapon when Eltiate drew his own gun and commanded Triplett to surrender. Triplett is accused of issuing fictitious checks to Watson's drug store; Christopher's market and Elmer Yordy's place, in Orange. Each check was in the amount of $20, it is alleged.

Questioned after his arrest, Triplett assertedly said "I bought the gun in Santa Ana and was going to kill my wife and myself. She got religion and I told her then, she was as good as she ever could get to be, and she might as well go out now."

A checkup by Officer Charles W. Wolford of Santa Ana resulted in arrest of Mrs. A. E. Rankin of Santa Ana, dealer in firearms, who was sentenced to 90 days in county jail by Judge J. G. Mitchell, the sentence being suspended. She was accused of violating the Concealed Weapon act by selling the revolver Triplett used. The same day he asked to buy it. Triplett, who told officers he has been a gambler for 15 years, said he lost all of his money this week, gambling in Anaheim. He wrote the allegedly fictitious checks to replenish his money, he said.

Holiday Events

The Christmas edition of Lathrop Lineup will be in the hands of Lathrop students Friday. Mrs. Frances Beeson and Mrs. Marguerite Hill are faculty sponsors. Their staff has been chosen from ninth grade English classes.

Welfare work under Mrs. Iva Webber's direction is progressing each day. Many home rooms have started filling their boxes, which are decorated in various ways. Some represent chimneys, some use blue and silver for their coloring, and others use red and green decorations. These boxes will be presented by the home room to be distributed at a Christmas assembly, and the contributions will be distributed to welfare organizations by Every Girl and L. X. L. clubs.

Plans for Christmas home room programs are nearing completion. Mrs. Grace Wolff's class will dramatize "A Christmas Carol"; Miss Rhythe's home room is working on a play and an exchange of gifts which will later be put into the welfare box; Miss Cornell's Drama Class will give a series of one act plays.

Lathrop rotunda presents a picture of Yuletide cheer. Pine and spruce boughs line the walls, and in one corner is a fire place. Wreaths and baskets of red berries add to the festive appearance of the hall, which was decorated by Miss Mildred Tummond and officers of the school clubs.

Class Activities

Low 8 girls in Miss Ruth Gordon's vocation class heard a talk recently by Miss Margaret Van Scoyoc, school nurse. Miss Van Scoyoc told of the preparation and training requirements for nursing, and answered questions on that subject.

The clothing classes, under Miss Henrietta Foster's direction, are busy these days assisting in the dressing of dolls for Christmas Welfare work. The girls are working on aprons, gaiters, shorts and pajamas before Christmas. The Beauty of Dress in Color and Line as a unit preparation for their dresses which will be started soon.

A meeting of 8th grade Girl Reserves with Mrs. Marjorie Crumrine as director, was held recently at the home of Doris Rider. Mrs. McDonald of Anaheim displayed articles which she brought from Mexico.

Titles which she brought from Mexico.

Election of officers in Miss Lelia Thrasher's home room resulted in the following appointments: president, Marion Blackburn; vice president, Jack Atwood and secretary, Ruth Anderson.

Students in Miss Pearl Nicholson's class have completed attractive scrapbooks. These were made of various colors, with bound covers, designed end pieces and the raised initial of each student on the front of each book. The books will be given to children in hospitals.

As a General Science project, this class has planted and is caring for a sweet pea bed. A study of seeds and of beans will follow. Savory orders from Mrs. Ethel Sinke's Foods department indicate that her classes are preparing for Christmas. Cookies, lollipops, peanut brittle, candied apples are all being made. A display of canned fruits, vegetables, jams and fruit cakes wrapped in brightly colored cellophane tempt visitors to this department.

Library

The spirit of Christmas prevails in Lathrop Branch Library. There is a big Christmas tree with many colored lights, and at the base of the tree are many new books nestled in cotton snow.

The miniature stage made by David Craighead, 9th grade student, makes a lovely setting for the "Nativity Scene" that is a part of the annual Christmas display at the library.

Books of Christmas poems, plays, and stories are displayed in a big window near a large Christmas poster and big red candles. Lathrop branch library will be open to the public, mornings and afternoons, all during the Christmas holidays.

On Thursday morning, December 24, at ten o'clock, there will be a Christmas story hour for little children.

One hundred and ten new books for adults and children were added to the library last month. Some of them are: Alice, Off to Philadelphia; Allen & Lyman, Wonder Book of the Air; Bianco, Winterbound; Brink, Mademoiselle Misfortune; Chase, Rich Land Poor Land; Coatsworth, Sword of the Wilderness; Darling, Boris Grandson of Baldy; Eaton, Betsy's Singing Sander; Ellis, Spanish Inheritance; Fargo, Marian-Martha; Ferris, Challenge; Hall, Up Creek and Down Creek; Jacobs, Modern Tennis; Kahmann, Raquel A Girl of Puerto Rico; Lenski, Phebe Fairchild; Lull, Face West; Mason, Active Games and Contests; Meador, The Will to Win; Montgomery, Anne of Windy Poplars; Moon, Singing Sander; Morris, Susan and Arabella Pioneers; Overbeck, Seven the Wise and Svea the Kind; Pease, Hurricane Weather; Phillips, The Saucy Betsy; Quinn, War-Paint and Powder-Horn; Rourke, Audubon; Shirley, The Redwoods of Coast and Sierra; Smith, Indian Tribes of the Southwest; Stoddard, Discovering My Job; Jr. Aircraft Year Book, Flying for 1936.

Ten girls in Mrs. Ethel Sinke's Low 9 Foods Class were made happy when a Christmas party was given them because they had earned the most points on their home-work chart. Games of question and answer, and black magic were played, and clever little gifts were exchanged. The class presented their teacher with a cut glass perfume bottle. Punch, sandwiches, and Christmas cookies were made and served by members of the class. Girls who won the party as an award were Marjorie Beugby, Ethel Giron, Audrey Jacobs, Mary Pappas, Betty Perryman, Marie Sean, Mildred Stoops and Corinne Wendorf. Hostesses were Lucy Alvarado, Maxine Ezelle, Jeanne Lawrence, Vernice Stigers, Rosemary Pearce, Edith Stoops, Harriet Sturgeon, Merry White, Phyllis White, and Emmy Lou Brooks.

Lathrop shops are busy these days making photo cells, weather instruments such as barometers, thermometers and hygrometers. Mr. Adams of the Country Club golf links has brought some golf clubs to the boys for nickel playing.

Frances Willard

On Exhibit

The showcases in Willard halls are displaying many interesting exhibits this month.

Miss Mary Jane Steel's C and D vocation classes made miniature articles to represent what they are studying. This interesting display includes oil-wells, bridges, electric motors and radios.

Miss Fitz has secured a number of dairy products from the Arden and Raitt dairies. She is also showing a display from Wiseman's including all kinds of kitchen utensils.

Mrs. M. L. Scott is exhibiting puppets, raffia and reed baskets, wooden books, and yarn belts made by the Girl Scouts and loaned by Miss Katherine Chapman, leader of the scout troop.

The art and craft display, which includes Miss Glancy's and Miss

Lobby's showcases, are showing charcoal drawings and pictures painted in poster paints. The craft exhibit is made up of pictures carved out of wood and pottery.

For Operetta Cast

Eighty-three members of the operetta cast and orchestra attended a successful party given Thursday evening in the cafeteria. The committee responsible for the success of the party included Jean Humble, Dorothy Thompson, Daryl Sherby, and Bob Davy.

A Paul Jones, grand march, cheer, and a dancing contest were some of the amusements of the party. Music for dancing was furnished by Howard Elliott with a public address system. Refreshments were served.

New Decision

Mr. Michel today announced that the eighth and ninth grade boys' glee clubs will devote the latter 15 minutes of the period each day to the singing of popular songs. This was greeted with much interest by the boys, who have been wanting to sing popular songs for some time. Mr. Michel decided they could study popular as well as classical music.

Dance Plans

A costume dance to be given during the Christmas holidays was planned at the fourth meeting of the Nos Amici Latin club held at the home of Aileen Smith. Dues of ten cents a month will be collected from each member to defray expenses. A special meeting was to be held today at the home of Jean Conliffe, to vote in new members.

Refreshments were served to Connie O'Donnell, Phyllis Remis, Barbara Flower, Jean Conliffe, Rosemary Blodgett, Katharine Hambricht, Aileen Smith, and Frances Page.

Speed Ball

Mrs. Scott's fourth block ninth grade P. E. class has elected Carroll Jean Brinkerhoff speed ball manager this quarter. An inter-class tournament has been started in this class which will be divided into six teams.

Captains of these teams are Numa Haslitt, Polly Cartwright, Lillian Braux, June Tway, Dorothy Frazer and Katherine Hambricht—all excellent in sports.

Captains from Miss Anderson's block two, seventh grade P. E. class are Elva Sutton, Ruth Kadawaki, Dana Jean Buck, and Virginia Woodward.

There will be one game played each day until the end of this quarter, then the two winning teams will play it out for the championship.

Picture List

Another approved movie list for Junior high school students was recently announced in the "Willard Newslette" a P. T. A. publication. It included: Charge of the Light Brigade, Easy to Take, Flying Hostess, Gay Desperado, King of Hockey, Theodora Goes Wild (some say this is too mature). Under Your Spell, Ranger Courage, Rose Bowl, Smartest Girl in Town, Tarzan Fights Back, Along Came Love, Luckiest Girl in the World, and Pigskin Parade.

Sewing Classes

Members of the two low nine sewing classes, under the supervision of Miss Greene, are having a contest to determine which class does the best work in the shortest time.

For each member of the two classes a record is kept of the work done every day. A prize will be awarded to the winning class when the contest ends the day before Christmas vacation, Miss Greene said.

Party Plans

The Ninth Grade Girl Reserves, led by Miss Anderson, are planning a Christmas party to be given Dec.

17, from 7 to 9:30 in the Y. W. C. A. rooms.

It has been decided that members of the club should bring their gifts for the poor to the party given by Carroll Miller, chairman of the service project, will see that they are taken care of.

Beatrice Hewitt was chosen chairman of the refreshment committee; Betty Ellen Mitchell, clean-up; Frances Page, entertainment.

Typing Contest

The contest for typing certificates conducted in the typing department of Willard is coming along very nicely according to Mrs. Wright, head of this department. Those receiving small certificates so far are for the advanced class—Charline Chambers, who made 45 new words a minute, and Lucyle May Siewek, who did 25 words. The students in the beginning class making their goal are Dorothy Raitt, with 19 words; Virginia Campbell, making 21 words; Josephine Stanlet who also made 19 words; Dorothy Frazer, with 16 words and Louis Green, who succeeded with 15 words per minute.

Besides small certificates students may also receive large certificates and bronze, silver and gold pins with the necessary requirements.

Christmas Giving

Christmas for many needy families will be made a much happier one this year by the distribution of gayly decorated boxes filled by the home rooms with non-perishable food. The boxes will be made and decorated by the home room representatives. A prize of a free period will be given to the home room having the best box.

A box for each home room will appear in the halls Monday morning, December 14. By 10:00 Friday morning, December 18, when the drive will end, they will be judged and placed in the patio. Students interested may then go through the patio between classes and at noon to inspect them.

The planning and distribution of the boxes is an annual event in Willard, according to Mrs. Lund. Approximately twenty-three boxes are filled each year by the junior high students.

Paper Exchange

It has always been the policy of the "Willard Echo" to exchange papers with other junior high schools all over the country. To date the "Echo" has received 85 papers, representing 17 states and Hawaii.

These papers come in all sizes, the largest from Spokane, Washington, and the smallest from York, Pennsylvania. The news is of many kinds ranging from dances to graduation. Most of these papers are printed in school print shops, but there are still a few which are mimeographed.

Study Plans

The seventh grade library classes, meeting two days a week, are now studying encyclopedias, according to Mrs. Croddy, instructor. During the quarter, they have been studying the use of the library, the dictionary, and the atlas. The class meets for nine weeks during the study of the use of various kinds of special reference books, such as the World Almanac, the Readers' Guide to Periodical Literature, the classification of fiction and non-fiction books, and the use of the card catalogue.

Parliamentary Law

Burrell Lee will preside as president of the recently organized Parliamentary Law club, which will meet every Tuesday noon in room 112, with Mrs. Low, acting adviser. Hugh Brooks was elected vice-president; Mary Toyoda, secretary and committee chairman; and Irene Barp, treasurer.

"The object of this club is to acquaint its members with the usage of parliamentary procedure and to give them the opportunity to practice it," Miss Low said. No social parties will be held. Membership has been limited to 25.

Charter members are Clara Belty, Hugh Brooks, Irene Barp, Tedmadge Cook, Jane Doyle, Helen Tarnett, Harry Harlow, Burrell Lee, Rowland Partridge, Mary Toyoda, Flo Flo Plavan, and Irma May Yonel.

"PINK ELEPHANT" TRIAL

BUTTE, Mont. (UP)—Lester A. Wiles, conducting his own case in the federal court on charges of violating the internal revenue laws, started both the judge and the jury by declaring that just as he was about to enter his motor car he saw "pink elephants jumping over the fence." It later developed that the "pink elephants" were the federal men who arrested him.

Trade Fair Traced Back to 3880 B. C.

LEIPZIG—(UP)—The history of trade has been traced back for many centuries by the translation of ancient Babylonian records. Hieroglyphics of the brick books of Babylon reveal the fact that as early as 3880 B. C. in the reign of Sargon in Sumeria fairs and bazaars were held to encourage trade. A thousand years later, laws for the proper conduct of such fairs, known as the code of Hammurabi, were announced by the Babylonian emperor of that name. In China, the Emperor Fu-Hi issued orders regarding the conduct of fairs as early as 2852 B. C. Later came the Greek festival fair at Delos with its familiar Olympic games. History was repeated this year when crowds attended the Olympics and remained to visit the Leipzig Fair as they did in Greece 3000 years ago. It has been estimated that it takes $37 a year to teach a pupil in the elementary grades, and $145 a year in public high school.

ASHLAND, Wis., (UP) — John Makkanen, 53-year-old Finnish settler in the town of Oulu near here, serves to substantiate the old theory that eventually man must pay for the things he does.

Thirty years ago, Makkanen was a member of a crew that cut virgin timber near Slowbridge in the Moquah unit of the Chequamegon National forest.

Recently, he assisted 7 farmers in replanting the same area with jack pines.

In his 68 years of experience with wheels, he has owned several hundred. Some he made himself. He has bought standard makes and altered them to suit his moods. In this section a new Whittemore bicycle attracts as much attention as the latest model motor car.

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 11. — It is offered for his vanishment. high time someone paid tribute to George Bancroft, who has been cruelly crucified. Since no one else seems ready, I shall do the honors myself. As you know (if you follow your movies closely), Bancroft was an important star during the early thirties. One day he disappeared, and after the usual flurry of fan-letter inquiries, he became one of the vast horde of gone-and-almost-forgotten.

If his name was mentioned at all hereabouts, conflicting reasons of the past two years to a gallant fight to help his wife regain good health. Following an attack of influenza three years ago, Mrs. Bancroft was stricken with a serious ailment which necessitated long rests in sanitariums, and grim trips to other climates. Always George was at her side, and during these years he rejected many fat screen roles because he desired no success that Mrs. Bancroft could not share.

Now that she is well again and he has resumed his career, it appears reasonably sure he will crash his way over the goal line again. I hope so, if only to see the ends made liars to boot.

An excited pressagent, hounded by newspaper reporters, dashed on Clark Gable's set. "Mr. Gable," he exclaimed, "the wire services have a report that you were seen in El Paso, Texas, yesterday!" "Yeah," snapped Clark, who had worked Accidents like that which kept for several weeks result in jobs of sympathy for the injured stars. That is as it should be of course.

But I have yet to hear a sob for other players in pictures which are delayed by such injuries. They, too, deserve sympathy, because in their contracts there is this clause: In case of production delay due to an act of God, the player agrees to stand by for call on (1) one-half salary or (2) no salary. Important stars demand and get half salary. Lesser players usually stand by without salary, and they often refuse other screen jobs because they must hold themselves subject to recall for continuation of the picture for which they are already contracted.

Stump Saves Two From Buck's Fury

LIGONIER, Pa. (UP) — Joseph Hall and Hugh Kelly, road workers, know how a bullfighter feels during working hours. They played a game of tag with an enraged buck around a stump near the Forbes Game Refuge and came out unscathed. With only the stump for protection against the onrushes of the infuriated animal, the men kept one jump ahead of the deer, dodging behind the stump at each charge.

Finally, the tiring animal gave it up as a bad job.

GIO CALLS FOR STATE BAN ON PLANT UNIONS

PITTSBURGH, (UP)—The Steel Workers Organizing committee, campaigning to unionize 500,000 steel workers, is prepared to push a sweeping five-point program of state laws to guarantee to workers "their fundamental rights."

Philip Murray, chairman of the SWOC, said the legislative program would be promoted in every state where John L. Lewis' Committee for Industrial Organization is conducting drives to unionize workers in such mass-production industries as steel, automobile and rubber companies.

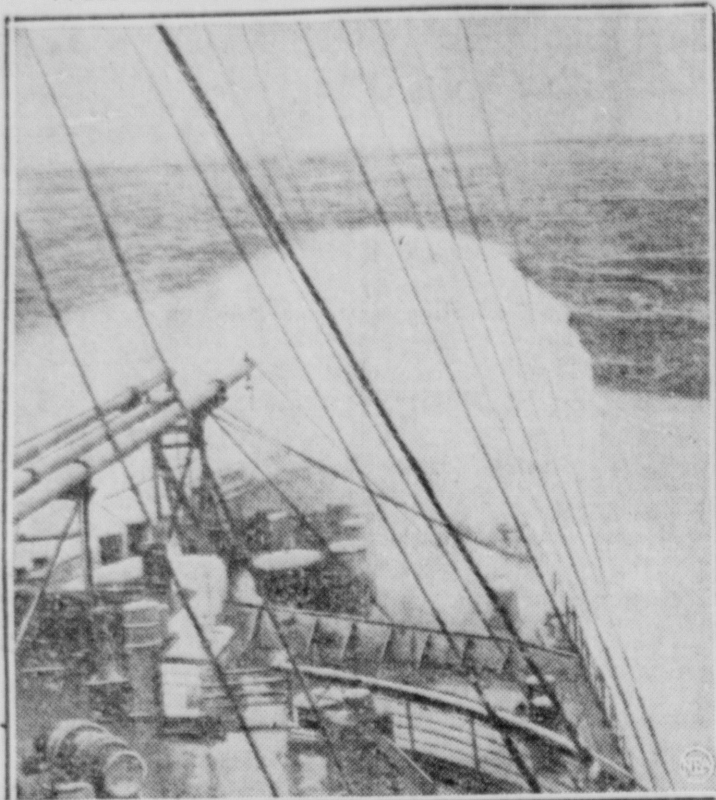

A state labor relations act, patterned after the National Labor Relations act, will be the No. 1 proposed bill on the legislative program.

Would Outlaw Company Unions. Such a measure, Murray said, would compel employers to permit their employees to organize into independent unions. It would outlaw company unions and make illegal "all the coercive and intimidating practices which employers are accustomed to use to prohibit their workers from exercising such a fundamental right as the one to organize."

An anti-injunction act, following closely in form the Federal Norris-LaGuardia act, also will be proposed. The federal act, Murray explains, defines and restricts the jurisdiction of the federal courts in issuing injunctions in the case of labor disputes. The proposed legislation would do the same for the state courts.

A third bill would prohibit the payment of compensation to sheriffs or other peace officers by private corporations and would prohibit "the free and easy practice, on

Winter Storms Make Their Bow

A foretaste of the many struggles to come between powerful transatlantic liners and mountainous seas churned up by winter storms is afforded by this picture made as the S. S. Bremen pounded her way toward New York, her bow throwing up a plume of spray. Driven by head winds, the huge waves delayed the liner's arrival at New York nearly 24 hours.

the part of sheriffs, of appointing deputies merely for the purpose of defeating the workers in their economic struggle by requiring public hearings before any such appointments can be made," Murray said.

Wants Positive Proof
"Proof would be required that such appointments are essential to the actual preservation of the public peace and safety," Murray declared.

The exercise of civil liberties, including the right to organize, free from any interference through local legislation or local officials, would be guaranteed under a fourth proposed bill.

A fifth bill would strike at evictions of employees who join unions or engage in industrial disputes. This measure, Murray said, will attempt to meet the situation where employers, in the case of industrial disputes, "use their strongest economic weapon of carrying through wholesale evictions of those employees who have dared to join an independent union of their own."

$5,500 IDEAL HOME DESIGNED

MADISON, Wis. (UP)—Frank Lloyd Wright, world-famous native Wisconsin architect, has issued a new challenge to public and private sponsors of low-cost housing in designing a dwelling here estimated unofficially to cost $5500.

Wright thus is entering a construction field of lower costs than he has attempted heretofore. Long interested in home designing, his own place, Taliesin (meaning shining brow in his native Welsh) twice burned, and thrice erected, has won worldwide attention. He lives near Spring Green, a tiny village in this vicinity.

The dining room in Wright's new low-cost housing venture will form an adjunct of a big living room, it was learned. The living room is to contain a large fireplace, built as "an integral structural feature made out of materials of the building itself."

Wright achieved international recognition some years ago when a hotel he built in Japan withstood the shock of a devastating earthquake.

High-Salaried Men Accept Jury Duty

Rejoicing Winners at 4-H Show

These champions at the National 4-H Club Congress, held in Chicago in connection with the International Livestock Show, smilingly hold the symbols of their supremacy. as an indication of revived interest in government.

James H. Gardner, oil company executive, recently exemplified this new trend by sitting with 11 other persons—at $3 a day—to hear a negro chicken-stealing case. Such attention to civic duty is becoming less unusual, according to Dixie Gilmer, county attorney-elect. "Times have changed," Gilmer asserted. "A few years ago, men of large affairs avoided jury service. It is a healthy sign of revived interest in government and an excellent example for the community when such men accept jury service. We have had a number of prominent men on juries in recent months and even more who are less prominent, yet who are sound, straight-thinking business men."

ROAMING AROUND IN A WORLD OF SPORTS

Santa Anita's two rich purses, the $100,000 Handicap and $50,000 Derby, not only are luring some of the best horseflesh in the nation but are pulling thoroughbreds from across the water.

Two arrivals at the California track are Grand Manitou, imported from France by Raoul Walsh, movie director, for the Handicap, and Sunset Trail, an Irish-bred juvenile, over here for the Derby.

Shipping these two horses across the water proves one thing—that increase of purses offered at tracks around the country will lure the cream of the nation's horses, and in that way improve the breed that long-suffering bettors have been supporting for all these many years.

PROS MISS TILDEN

While Fred Perry's bounding net-jumping form will give the professional tennis picture a big gob of color when the circuit swings under way in New York, Jan. 6, there'll be a big part of the canvas missing.

Big Bill Tilden's jutting chin, cannonball service and lanky form won't be there, and somehow the setting will lack one of its main props.

Tilden and Vines now are on their way back from Japan, where they recently staged a very successful exhibition tour. Instead of coming on to New York, however, Bill is expected to start a professional tour of his own, playing with a Japanese star.

It indicates that the prime mover behind professional tennis, and the man who has fought long and hard for an open tournament, is finally breaking with the sport, which, even with Perry present, will be the loser.

Perry no doubt will draw more paired with Vines in the singles matches than Tilden would, for net fans, no matter how rabid, get tired of seeing the same combination year after year.

However, Perry, ex-outstanding amateur of the world, may not have the drawing power at the end of the season that he has now. Vines, professional champion and possessor of the world's fastest service, probably can spot him a set and win—if the gate can stand it.

CRONIN'S LAST STAND

While the Boston Red Sox, Detroit Tigers and Washington Senators are interested in strengthening their squads during the interval between now and next opening day, they are more concerned with the comeback of their star performers of 1935.

In New Yorktown the buzz who crowd Fenway park to see the Sox cavort are clamoring up the Hot Stove league with arguments to whether Manager Joe Cronin can come back.

Joe's oft-broken wrist slowed down his play at short, and those long legs that he used to negotiate

Garden Grove's seventh successive Orange county Class B basketball tournament will be completed tonight at 7:30 with the finalists to be decided this afternoon at Huntington Beach and Newport Harbor play at 2 o'clock and Capistrano meets Tustin at 4.

Several games were forfeited because of conflicts, which will be ironed out next year. Principal John H. Mitchell, who is in charge of the tournament, stated:

Huntington Beach, 26; Anaheim, 20; Newport Harbor, 24; Orange, 18; Capistrano, 26; Garden Grove, 19; Brea by forfeit over Laguna; Newport by forfeit from Valencia; Tustin, 25; Brea, 20; Anaheim, 20; Huntington Beach, 24; Laguna Beach, 14.

BERKELEY, Dec. 11.—Woodrow Wilson high school of Long Beach today was officially accepted as the site of the 1937 California State interscholastic track and field meet by members of the State C. I. F. council. The date for the classic was set for Saturday, May 22.

No other city in Southern California was considered after it was agreed that the classic should go to a field outside Los Angeles.

Most hair troubles—thin hair; falling hair; dull, lifeless hair; dandruff; dry, itching scalp; baldness—are caused by an insufficient or incorrect secretion of natural oil to properly lubricate and nourish the hair. TELL PREP BASKETBALL PAIRINGS

24 SCHOOLS GO TO POST NEXT WEEK AT H. B.

Including every Orange county team but Garden Grove, 24 Southern California high schools are entered in the eighth annual Southern Counties invitational basketball tournament at Huntington Beach, beginning next Thursday and concluding the following Saturday night.

In the major division are Fullerton, Woodrow Wilson of Long Beach, Chaffey, Long Beach Poly, Muir Tech (Pasadena), Whittier and Santa Ana.

The intermediate group is composed of Anaheim, Corona, Colton, Huntington Beach, Newport Harbor, Excelsior, Orange and Jordan (Long Beach).

Minor division entries are Valencia, Downey, Chino, Laguna Beach, Brea-Olinda, San Juan Capistrano, Tustin and Bonita.

First round pairings were announced today as follows:

MINOR CLASS
Thursday—Downey vs. Valencia, 2:30; Capistrano vs. Brea-Olinda, 6:30.
Friday—Chino vs. Laguna Beach, 2:30; Tustin vs. Bonita, 6:30.
INTERMEDIATE CLASS
Thursday—Corona vs. Anaheim, 3:30; Colton vs. Huntington Beach, 7:30.
Friday—Newport vs. Excelsior, 3:30; Orange vs. Jordan (Long Beach), 7:30.
MAJOR CLASS
Thursday—4:30 p. m., Fullerton vs. Woodrow Wilson, 4:30; Long Beach Poly vs. Muir Tech, 8:30.
Friday—Whittier vs. Santa Ana, 4:30; Redondo Beach vs. Chaffey, 8:30.

Because of limited accommodations, the tournament had to be limited to 24 teams. It was necessary to reject applications of eleven schools. The tournament will last three days.

Six trophies are to be awarded to the two winners in each division and gold, silver and bronze place winners and a statuette of eleven schools.

L. W. Miner of the Huntington Beach coaching staff is credited with having originated the tournament in 1929. Coach Miner had previously conducted a similar tournament in the East.

Since the founding of the tournament in 1929, Chino, competing in the minor division, has won three times. During the first two years of its existence the play was limited to one division and was won by Chaffey and Whittier.

In 1931 Glendale won and in 1932 San Diego took the laurels. Muir Tech, Long Beach Poly and Santa Ana won the title in the following years.

As has been the custom in former years, an all-star team will be selected.

Atlantic City Fight "Dream"

Grayson Says Schmeling Will Get Title Go In June

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—(UP)—The "bottle of contracts" between Heavyweight Champion Jimmy Braddock, Challenger Max Schmeling, Madison Square Garden and the 20th Century Sporting club was scheduled for today's meeting of the New York state athletic commission.

Schmeling will try to persuade the commission to force Braddock to discard plans to fight Joe Louis in a 12-round, no-decision bout at Atlantic City in February and keep the champion inactive until June 3 when he is scheduled to defend his title against the German.

BY HARRY GRAYSON

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—Take no stock in the much-talked-of 12-round, no-decision contest between James J. Braddock and Joe Louis, tentatively scheduled for Convention Hall, Atlantic City, Feb. 3.

Braddock and Louis and their handlers would like to make the match. So would the two great promotional organizations, Madison Square Garden and the 20th Century Sporting club, the latter the prize fight department of the Hearst newspapers.

The trouble is that Max Schmeling knocked out Louis, that smashing and totally unexpected victory won the German the right to box Braddock for the title.

Braddock is not only signed, but pledged, to tackle Schmeling in the Sunken Garden of Queens on June 2.

What caused Herman Taylor of Philadelphia to launch the Atlantic City movement was the knowledge that Joe Gould, manager of Braddock, realizes that he made a grave mistake in permitting Schmeling to beat his supposed champion to Louis. Braddock would collect vastly more money for scrapping Louis than for meeting Schmeling, but it now is too late for Gould or anybody else to do anything about it.

Atlantic City Training Camp

Taylor dug up $100,000 and announced that he had promoted an angel willing to guarantee Braddock $300,000.

I doubt that there is that much money lying around loose for a no-decision engagement featuring Braddock and Louis. Certainly, not at Atlantic City in mid-winter. Atlantic City is a training camp, not a fight center, and a Braddock-Louis bout would not be a big enough draw to transform it into the latter, especially with the no-decision clause.

Since Tex Rickard's time, it has been the Garden Corporation's policy to keep the heavyweight champion under contract. Challengers always have been bound to make their first defense of the title for the Garden in the event that they captured it.

T. C. U. WEIGHS 'COTTON BOWL' FOOTBALL BID

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 11.—(UP)—The Texas Christian university Horned Frogs, with an invitation to meet Marquette in a "Cotton Bowl" game at Dallas New Year's Day, unlimbered their train here today on the turf of Kears stadium, where they will play Santa Clara in an important intercollegiate football tomorrow.

The Broncos rated slight favorites over the Texans, waging establishments reported, but betting was light.

The T. C. U. contingent received the Dallas bid while it stopped over at Fresno yesterday. Coach "Dutch" Meyer said he would take no action on the offer until after the Santa Clara game.

After a light workout today, the Frogs will "see the sights" in San Francisco and rest in their hotel until game time.

They worked out briefly at Fresno State college field yesterday while the T. C. U. band paraded through the city's streets. Later the group was tendered a civic reception and a dinner.

Meanwhile, Meyer reported injuries had struck his squad. Pat Clifford, second string halfback, reportedly is out of the lineup with a broken bone in his foot. Hal McClure, right halfback, has a leg injury that may keep him out of the game. Bob Harrell, substitute back, also is bothered by a leg injury.

The Broncos were reported by Coach "Buck" Shaw to be in top shape for the game, in which the Santa Clarans will stake their spotless record against the wiles of slinging Sammy Baugh and his fast-stepping teammates.

SAN DIEGO-U. C. L. A. TRACK MEET SIGNED

SAN DIEGO, Dec. 11.—(UP)—San Diego State college's track team, Southern California conference champions for two years, will meet U. C. L. A. in a dual meet in Los Angeles April 17, athletic officials at San Diego State said today.

LANDIS TAKES EASY WAY OUT IN KNOTTY BOB FELLER CASE

BY GEORGE KIRKSEY (United Press Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—(UP)—The case of the 70-year-old former judge and the 18-year-old schoolboy pitching phenomenon seemed likely to have far-reaching repercussions in the baseball world today.

Kenesaw Mountain Landis, baseball's one-man supreme court, ruled Robert Feller, the brilliant young strikeout king, the property of the Cleveland Indians. Landis made the easy decision, one calculated to please all—the Indians and other major league clubs, Des Moines the complaining club, and even Feller and his father who executed the original contract because his son was a minor. The judge admitted in his decision that Cleveland violated the major-minor agreement. But the only penalty he meted out was the award of $7500 to be paid to Des Moines by Cleveland.

In justifying his decision Landis said: "So far as Des Moines, the complaining club, is concerned invalidation of the Feller-Cleveland contract would be futile, as its only result would be to recreate precisely the same situation through Feller's signing a new contract in the name of some other minor club acting for some other major club."

GOOD GARDENING

By Mrs. H. Cardoza Sloan, Corona Del Mar
Being sound advice and interesting comment on what to plant and how to care for Orange county gardens.

GARDEN NOTES

THE WIND. John Muir thought the trees rejoiced in a high wind. He speaks of the winds caressing the trees, bending them in luscious exercise, stimulating their growth, "the winds blessing the forests, the forests the winds, with ineffable beauty and harmony as the sure result." And of the trees exulting in "invincible gladness."

I am convinced Mr. Muir never experienced a Santa Ana, that is to say, a desert northeast wind. Or at least that he had no such wind in mind when he wrote the above. For not even John Muir (whom I adore) could make me believe that the trees "the that drying, burning, tearing desert wind. And as for the plants, poor stricken things!"

The gardening spirit in this county was certainly laid low the first of this week. But came the rain with cleansing and healing, and after a little intensive cleaning up in our gardens, and the soil rite performed over some few plants which have forever departed, tranquility is returning to gardens and gardeners alike.

TALL HEDGE. Nine times out of ten the first choice for a tall, dense hedge in Southern California has been the Monterey cypress.

Species Tulips

Since many trees in such cypress hedges have begun to die as a result of the attacks of a certain borer, more notice has been focused on the splendid hedges or wind-breaks of pittosporum, of which we have some good examples in Orange County.

Pittosporum undulatum is the species most used. A fine tree, growing 20 feet or more tall. The foliage is attractive, the leaves green, glossy and undulating, clustered in a loosely circular arrangement on the twigs. While making a tall, broad, dense screen it is not as severe in line nor as somber in color as the cypress, and makes a very handsome hedge.

And it flowers. And the flowers are fragrant, delightfully so. Certainly a charming thing in a hedge plant. The little yellowish-white blossoms in loose clusters have no special beauty, though they add a touch of delicacy to the trees in blooming season. But their orange-blossom scent perfumes the air, and is especially pronounced at night.

Keep pittosporum undulatum in mind if you are planting a tall hedge.

VINING SHRUB. Allied to the pittosporum and like them coming to us from Australia is a very attractive vining shrub, Sollya heterophylla, the Australian bluebell. The ladies of the botanical class will at once discern that this species was named for someone by the name of "Solly" (an English botanist of a century ago) and that this particular shrub, "heterophylla," has leaves of varying shapes. Most of them are lance shaped, one to two inches long, of a lovely, bright, shiny green. They cover the bush or vine densely and are at all times attractive, but exceedingly so when they form a background for the myriads of little bluebell blossoms—blossoms of a true and brilliant blue, which are a joy to the eye.

This plant, half way between shrub and vine, is very happy when allowed to range freely over a hillside. Trimmed to keep it within bounds it makes a pretty specimen shrub. I once saw it trimmed as a hedge, and it was so attractive hung with its little blue bells, that I wondered why it is not more used for that purpose.

The bush has slender, twining stems and therefore is well adapted to use as a vine. So grown I have seen it attain a height of ten feet. In fact, I had some myself, several plants along a wire screen which was some fifteen feet long and ten feet high. Here the small leaves formed a dense mass of beautiful green, and when completely hung with the little bluebells it was charming.

The situation was trying, rather poor soil, not much sunshine, somewhat exposed to the strong ocean wind—and yet the vines grew and flourished to my great pride and joy. Until finally they fell before the onslaughts of gophers who ate right down the row, destroying every vine, and proving what I had not heard at that time but have since read in books, that "the roots are very attractive to the California pocket gopher, who plays sad havoc with it, if not watched. And there you have the tragic history of my sollyas—beautiful they were, but I did not watch them closely enough (or was it the gopher I should have watched?) and "sad havoc" truthfully describes what was wrought upon them.

BULBS. Still time to get in a planting of tulips or hyacinths. Or of ranunculus, which are so lovely for cutting that every gardener should have them. What do they need? Good drainage (they're quite fussy about that), plenty of sunshine, very little fertilizer, and an ordinary amount of water. Plant them 6 or 8 inches apart, they are more effective grown in a mass. The bulbs are funny little things, plant them with the claws turned down, cover about 2 inches. The newer ranunculi are lovely things, great balls of delicately textured petals.

Anemones require about the same culture. They have a brilliancy and richness of coloring which makes them stand out vividly among the spring blooms. They may be planted now also, and both ranunculus and anemone are easy to grow.

WINTER FRAGRANCE. There are two shrubs which bloom with us from midwinter to spring which have many pleasing qualities, not the least of which is their fragrance. Daphne odora is one, fairly well known. A little rounded shrub which may attain to a height of 4 feet, with shining green foliage and heads of creamy white, intensely fragrant flowers. The variegated form has the leaves margined with gold and pink flowers. The fragrance of the daphne is indescribably sweet and one shrub will scent the whole yard.

Another fine shrub for winter fragrance, one of the best things that has come to California gardens in recent years, is Lucilia gratissima. I do not know just how tall this shrub will grow. The beautiful specimen I saw was some six feet tall, compactly graceful. The leaves are large and glossy. The flowers, borne in large clusters, are a lovely soft pink, of exquisite texture. The perfume is something to dream about.

This shrub comes from the high slopes of the Himalayas, and is quite hardy with us, enduring light frost.

Both daphne and lucilia like a light soil well mixed with peat and leaf mold, good drainage, ample water, and slight shade. Plant one or both of these shrubs in your garden and make the winter days fragrant with their bloom.

NEED ENLARGED
PUBLIC HEALTH
PROGRAM, CLAIM

Drastic enlargement of our public health programs for the control of tuberculosis is needed in this state if Californians are to continue to enjoy a decreasing death rate from this disease, according to Dr. Walter H. Brown of Palo Alto, past president of the American Public Health association and a director of the California Tuberculosis association, which is now conducting the 30th annual Christmas seal sale.

Dr. Brown pointed out that less than half the population of this state is served by tuberculosis prevention and control programs, and in only a few communities are these programs of the highest standard. He said:

"An analysis of the official preventive machinery in the state of California brings us to this conclusion: preventive machinery for more than half the population of California is either primitive, inadequate or totally lacking. To be specific, for 2,000,829 people in the state of California there is in operation fair preventive machinery to protect them from tuberculosis, while for 2,847,000 people in California there is either no protection, or primitive, or inadequate protection.

"Although in some places in California preventive machinery for the control of tuberculosis has been built up by official agencies, for the most part health measures have been drastically curtailed during the last five years.

"California cannot hope to see the defeat of tuberculosis by drifting on the world-wide tide which is bringing the death rate down throughout this country. California has the highest death rate of any large state in the union. While we pride ourselves on the fact that nine other states lead us in the death rate, the combined population of all of these other states is less than twice of ours. More than 85 per cent of the population of the United States enjoys a more favorable tuberculosis death rate than does California."

Dr. Brown explains that until definite programs for the early discovery of tuberculosis cases, such as are now being carried on by tuberculosis associations throughout the state, are made part of the official health machinery, we cannot hope to bring about the control of tuberculosis

MUZZLING IN ON SUNDAY

From left to right, below, you'll find "Buckskin Bud" Sackett of Anaheim, muzzling in for Sunday's big time, old time competition at the fourth annual Southern California Arms Collectors association, and the West's woman champion muzzle loader, Mrs. R. M. Stagg, who is also treasurer of the association. Mrs. Stagg makes every member of the association "step" to compete with her. "Buckskin Bud," president of the association, is a well-known collector of old guns and has been shooting since boyhood. Both will be seen in action Sunday.

that will ultimately abolish this disease. Dr. Brown continued:

"California has an excellent system of county-owned, state subsidized tuberculosis sanatoria for the treatment of this disease. No additional tuberculosis beds are needed, except in a few counties which are not served at the present time. But as long as more than 50 per cent of the patients entering these sanatoria are in the far advanced stage of the disease and more than 25 per cent of the patients die in the institutions, we cannot claim to be using these sanatoria effectively for the treatment and cure of the disease. What is needed is a tuberculosis control program in every community in California that will discover all cases of tuberculosis in their early stages and bring them prompt treatment while cure is still a certainty and before they have spread their infection to others."

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA GUN
COLLECTORS PLAN "SHOOT"

By MALCOLM BOSTWICK

Every expert modern rifle shooter in Southern California—every one of them in the United States, for that matter—is challenged today to tangle targets with members of the Southern California Arms Collectors association at the association's fourth annual "shoot," to be held Sunday at the Santiago Rifle range, north of Irvine Park.

That is something for the experts in modern arms to think over between now and Sunday as some 50 members of the Old-Timers association plan to use flint lock and percussion lock in scoring bull's eyes at their annual competition. Every one of the old timers, who know the arts and sciences of using muzzle loaders with powder, ball and cap, will be on hand to accept any challenge. All guns used by the old timers date from the American Revolutionary period and no gun is of any account in the match if it was built after 1880. That's according to Dr. Roy S. Horton, member of the association's executive committee. And Dr. Horton, one of the Southern California experts on muzzle loading rifles, should know whereof he speaks.

The competition between old muzzle loaders and the modern rifles will be at the usual, prescribed distance, 100 yards. "Winner takes all," says Dr. Horton. To get to the range, go east from Orange and turn north just before reaching Irvine Park. Officials advise. Signs will be posted. The Santiago Rifle-Revolver club will hold its meet the same day at the same time at the same place and may get into competition with the old timers who will arrive from Burlingame, Ventura, San Bernardino, Brawley, San Diego, Santa Monica and a dozen places.

Here is the program for the muzzle-loading rifle matches. 10 events, with "Buckskin Bud" Sackett, of Anaheim, in charge as president:

No. 1, flint lock, open to anyone; muzzle loader, 50 yards; No. 2, open to anyone, 100 yards; No. 3, first timers match, open to anyone never competing with muzzle-loader before, 50 yards; No. 4, open to anyone, 50 yards; No. 5, ladies match, open to any lady, 50 yards; No. 6, open to anyone, 100 yards; No. 7, open to anyone, 100 yards; No. 8, open to anyone, permits telescopes, 220 yards; No. 9, two matches arranged for the hand gun followers, single shot and revolver arms; No. 10, bone-head match, open only to choice few who willingly try to fire a muzzle-loading rifle without use of powder.

ADEPT AT PANTOMIME
SYRACUSE, N. Y. (UP)—American Indians used "handies" as a practical means of conversation. Princess Nacomee, the blue-eyed daughter of a Kiowa chief, told a meeting here. She explained that different tribes conversed by pantomime. Happiness, she said, was conveyed by motions signifying: "You make the sun rise in my heart."

Almost a third of the non-occupational causes of accidents are traceable to automobiles.

NEW TRADITION
IN POST OFFICE

Postmaster Louis Hoskins, of Anaheim, is originator of what he hopes will become a tradition at the post office. In his office in the new building he is assembling pictures of all former postmasters. Heading these is a large family portrait of John Fischer, Anaheim's first postmaster. Of the 12 postmasters who followed him pictures are received or promised of all but one and that man's family or existing pictures have been lost trace of.

The picture of John Fischer was presented the post office by Dora Fischer Bain, daughter of the postmaster who took office in 1861 when the post office was created. Mr. Fischer owned the land at Los Angeles and Center streets where he constructed the Planters hotel, long one of the leading hostleries of the Southland. He was one of the 50 original colonists. The postmaster whose picture is missing is Carl Van Gulpen, second postmaster of Anaheim. Seven others have been received and are already on the wall of the postmaster's office. These include the picture of Alphonso W. Steinhart, third postmaster. The remaining pictures have been promised.

SUPERSTITION

By MARY KNOCH

From time immemorial in many portions of the globe ill-luck has been associated with the number 13. Because of the superstition the Italian lotteries and in Paris no house bears the number 13. There is a group of people in Paris called Quarantezimes which makes its living by making a 14th party at dinners.

Sailors strongly object to leaving port on the 13th of the month, especially if it happens to be on a Friday. Sailors also start on their 13th voyage with considerable apprehension.

In several sky-scrapers in New York 13 is skipped in numbering not only the rooms but even the floors, for example there may be a 12th and a 14th but no intervening floor.

Hotels very seldom have rooms with the number 13 because people of a superstitious nature refuse to stay in them. Hospitals also lack rooms numbering 13 but it is not definite as to the reason for the elimination. Neither St. Joseph hospital or Santa Ana Valley hospital have rooms numbering 13. The Orange county general hospital reports that it does have a room 13 but have had no complaints from patients who occupy that room.

FAMOUS CLOCKS

By ROBERT KIRTON,
Drop the Clock Shop,
Santa Ana

(Editor's Note: Following is the first of a series of articles on the history of famous old clocks, to be written by Robert Kirton, of the Drop the Clock Shop.)

BIG BEN

Big Ben was built by E. Dent & Co., of Ludgate Hill, London, in 1854 and is considered one of the world's most famous time pieces. It is located 238 feet above the sidewalk in Westminster tower of the house of parliament. It is 22 feet six inches across the dials. The Roman numerals are seven feet long, about seven inches thick and are made of bronze. The minute hands which are 11 feet long are made of solid copper and weigh one ton and a quarter. The hour hands are made of the same material but are much heavier.

Big Ben is a four-dial clock driven by a weight-driven movement, which stands on its platform over eight feet high. This movement was originally wound by hand by means of large crank handles. It originally took two men half a day to wind up the clock. It is now, however, wound by means of electric motors.

About 20 feet above the movement proper there is a stone beam, approximately 30 feet long and weighing in the neighborhood of 20 tons. This stone beam is used to support the world famous bell. Said bell weighs eight and one-half tons. The hammer which strikes the bell is 150 pounds.

This clock when striking can sometimes be heard the distance of 20 miles. Very few improvements have been made since the clock was originally built. It is still being taken care of by the descendants of E. Dent & Co. Visitors to London may get permission to ascend the clock tower from its makers.

Next week will be a story of another famous clock.

BOMB INSTRUCTOR ERRS

HONOLULU (UP)—Capt. Dewey Mookini was showing a class of police recruits how to handle tear gas bombs. Captain Mookini dropped the bomb. The class was dismissed.

BOARD OPENS
BIDS FOR NEW
ANAHEIM "GYM"

Seven bids on construction of the first unit of a new gymnasium for Anaheim High school were opened by the school board last evening, the lowest of which was that of Means, Ball and Hower, of Santa Ana, for $93,490.

Other bids were: O. T. Moore, Long Beach, $93,796; L. H. Wilson, Santa Ana, $97,945; Duff and Vandenhoezan Co., Long Beach, $102,849; Hylstone and Van Tuyl, Brea, $105,254; C. J. Dorfman, $106,739, and Arthur Pinner Jr., $109,448.

No decision was made last evening but the contract will be awarded at the regular board meeting tonight. The bids were referred to the architect, T. C. Kistner, for examination today. The board must act tonight since work must start Tuesday of next week in order to take advantage of the PWA allotment of 45 per cent of the cost of the building. The building will consist of a basketball playing floor, to be 180x59 feet in area and arranged for a girls' court on one end and room for two courts or for one exhibition court on the other end.

The estimate of the cost of the building was set at $70,000, for which PWA had promised 45 per cent.

BAREFOOT HABIT URGED

BOSTON (UP)—Children should play barefoot on soft ground during the formative period, according to Dr. Fred T. Reiss. Speaking before the Massachusetts Childropody association, Dr. Reiss said hard floors and pavements cause foot trouble in later years, and that no foot appliance can replace outdoor play in bare feet on yielding surfaces.

Shower Hostess Pays Compliment To Fall Bride

Planned in post-nuptial compliment to Mrs. R. Y. Engeman (Helen Cummings) was a party of holiday appointments last night in the home of Mrs. L. W. Corning, 1507 West Sixth street. Assisting the hostess in entertaining were her two sisters, Mrs. E. F. Dargatz, of Anaheim, and their mother, Mrs. A. F. Braden of this city.

Last night's affair came as one of the first in honor of Mrs. Engeman, whose marriage was a quiet event of mid-November in Los Angeles. She is daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Cummings of Santa Ana.

Pointsettias and other flowers of the season were arranged throughout the rooms, forming a pleasant background for an evening of anagrams. Prizes went to Miss Irene Wyckoff and Mrs. E. K. Merrifield who held high and low scores.

Presentation of miscellaneous shower gifts to Mrs. Engeman came as a climax feature of the evening. Jello dessert and cookies were served at small tables decorated in red and green.

Sharing the affair with the honoree, Mrs. Engeman, and her mother, Mrs. Cummings, were Mesdames Ruth Rule, E. K. Merrifield, M. T. Daniels, H. A. Cochran, E. K. Stevens, S. D. Pemberton, A. F. Braden, the Misses Irene Wyckoff, Doris Nichols, Lucille Nichols, all of this city; Mrs. E. F. Dargatz, Anaheim, and the hostess, Mrs. Corning.

Two Sorority Pledges
Share Party Plans

When Miss Jane McBurney welcomed Phi Omega sorority members this week to her home, 461 East Washington avenue, the pleasant social phases of the evening seemed an echo of their recent dinner and theater party in Los Angeles, which brought to a close the period of pledgeship for the Misses Ruth Wasson and Phyllis Heffe.

Mrs. Ronald Vincent conducted the necessary business session in connection with Miss McBurney's hospitality, and which was followed by a session of Hollywood bridge. Miss Heffe, a pledge, and Mrs. Vincent won the pretty prizes awarded by their hostess.

For the serving of ice cream and cookies to complete the party pleasures, Miss McBurney spread small tables with glossy linens and lighted them with slim red candles rising from massed holly. The whole effect was in harmony with the clustered poinsettias about the room.

Her guests were Mrs. Vincent, Mrs. Lester Boyle, the Misses Alice Nelson, Hazel Oliphant, Annie Tucker, Margaret Perry, Ruth McBurney, Jean Upshaw, Ruth Wasson and Phyllis Heffe.

SMART LAMP SHADES

Lamps can make or break a room no matter how perfectly done that room may be. Keep the light soft, and the lamps themselves in neutral shades. Also be sure that the style of the lamp harmonizes with the mode of the room. Don't put a modernistic lamp in a room furnished with exquisite antiques, and don't put a dainty old-fashioned lamp in a room that shrieks of modernity. Pure white lampshades and base—are the best and smartest. Used with a frosted shade, they cast a creamy glow over the room and do wonders for the color scheme.

NEW COMPACT MIRROR

Some of the newest compacts have swivel mirrors that enable you to see what is going on behind your back. They are as smart as they can be, and are made in pigskin, colored leathers, and gold and silver brocade. There is another new compact on the market, too. This one is made of featherweight oak and is such a relief to carry around. It comes in natural or stained oak or any color you want. Two decorative balls, one crystal and one metal, comprise the clasp.

Program Of Christmas
Music Given For
A. A. U. W.

Christmas music of Italy, Spain, France, Denmark, Russia and other countries was included in a program given by a string trio last night at a meeting of Orange County branch A. A. U. W. in the home of Miss Mabel McFadden, 806 North Main street.

Rose Marie Flint, violin; Mary R. Ferrey, piano and Marjorie Dudley, viola, played Christmas carols that are favorites in foreign lands. The trio selections followed the playing of the Bach and Schubert "Ave Marias" by Mrs. Flint and Mrs. Ferrey.

Tri-Y Girl Reserves chorus, directed by Miss Clara Spelman, sang carols, and later in the evening there was group singing of holiday music, with the string trio playing accompaniment. Miss Betty Jane Moore gave readings.

Miss Mary Porter was general chairman of last night's program, which was presented by the recent graduates group of the branch. Mrs. Wendell Finley and Mrs. Richard Robbins took charge of refreshments. Miss Lena May Wilcox, decorations.

White tapers in small red holders wreathed a mirror on which poinsettias were given an effective arrangement in the center of the table. Christmas cakes were served with wassail, with the president, Miss Martha Ehlen assisting the hostess group at this time. The next meeting will be held Thursday, January 14.

Bridge Club Hostess
Plans Luncheon As
Yule Observance

Highly stylized with its silver Christmas tree around which small silver reindeer were grouped, the table where Mrs. A. A. Beals, 1016 French street, seated her bridge club guests yesterday, was an interesting development of the holiday motif now so prevalent.

It is the custom for this little group of bridge enthusiasts to make their refreshment service at monthly meetings purely incidental to the interest of bridge and friendly communion. But because of the holiday spirit abroad in the land, yesterday's hostess made it a special event, and served a tempting luncheon menu as an introduction to the afternoon of bridge.

With three members of the group, Mrs. J. E. Owen, Miss Beulah May and Mrs. R. H. Sharpless, unable to attend, the hostess filled their places with three friends, Miss Lida Crookshank, Mrs. Charles Carothers and Mrs. J. S. Smart, completing the group with Mrs. J. Frank Burke, Mrs. Edward M. Nealey, Mrs. C. M. Rowland and Mrs. Maxwell Burke.

Mrs. Landis Concludes Interesting Parties
For Naval Wives

Charming in inspiration and development as was the luncheon and bridge at which Mrs. Irwin F. Landis entertained Tuesday in Pacific Coast club, Long Beach, it could not surpass a similar hospitality staged by her yesterday in the same interesting setting.

Both functions were planned by Mrs. Landis in compliment to the wives of two of her husband's classmates at United States Naval Academy, Annapolis, Admiral W. D. Leahy and Vice Admiral Clarence S. Kempff. They and Lieutenant Com. Landis have been delighted to renew school associations, and Mrs. Landis gave graceful acknowledgment to the years of friendship, with her social gesture towards Mrs. Leahy and Mrs. Kempff.

Yesterday's entertaining had Mrs. Leahy as special inspiration, and at the conclusion of the afternoon of bridge, the hostess included her home guest in the gift presentation when bridge prizes were awarded. Mrs. Emrys D. White and Mrs. Will A. Flood were rewarded for high contract scores.

Such decorative details as flowers, bridge equipment and gift wrappings followed the same general autumnal effect achieved in the initial function at which Mrs. Kempff was special guest of honor. Mrs. Landis had friendly assistance yesterday from her sister, Mrs. Richard Couden, Mrs. Howard Timmons, Mrs. Wade Warner and Mrs. George Briggs.

Blue And Silver Theme
Prevails At Luncheon

Blue and silver formed the effective color scheme for a Christmas luncheon at which Mrs. Fred M. Perryman entertained yesterday in her home, 1212 South Parton street.

Silver candles in blue holders lighted the table with its blue and silver Christmas tree centerpiece and favors. Blue and silver balls awayed from the chandelier above the table.

Sharing the affair with the hostess were sewing club members, who included Mesdames George Allison, John Taylor, Walter Kennedy, Clarence Steen, Harry Riehl, W. L. Copeland, William Swanson and Rose Woodward.

YOU and your Friends

Mr. and Mrs. Orval Heaton, 719 Fairview street, are expected to arrive home tomorrow from Emporia, Kans., where they have made their home for the past seven months while Mr. Heaton has been with Fluor Construction company. The couple enjoyed visiting with relatives in Rogers, Ark., Kansas City, Iowa and Wisconsin. They will be with Mrs. Heaton's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Groomer, 1009 West Sixth street, until they get re-settled in their own home.

Mrs. Leonard C. Scott of Central Point, Ore., who was called to Santa Ana by the illness and death of her brother, Vernon Carpenter, is a guest at the Harry P. Coleman home, 1502 North Flower street, during her stay in this city. She has also been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Carpenter, 1352 West Second street. Mrs. Scott will leave for her home in Oregon late next week. Miss Alva Wilson, of Eldorado, Ark., was also a visitor at the Coleman home recently. She is Mr. Coleman's cousin, and during her stay here, Mr. Coleman's uncle, John Wilson, of Highland, spent a day with them. When Miss Wilson left, her destination was Houston, Texas, where she would attend the wedding of her sister.

Word was received here today that Mrs. William Walters, of Huntington Beach boulevard, who has been in the Portland hospital for the past four months following a serious automobile accident, is now convalescing in the northern city. Her address is 535 Northwest 18th avenue, Portland, Ore., and she would be glad to hear from her friends. She and Mrs. Frank Walters, who was Mrs. Walters' mother, were in the city to see Mr. Walters.

GLAMOROUS WRAPPINGS

The combination of transparent cellophane and paper wrappings, neatly and artistically tied, will make even the simplest gift package look luxurious and fascinating under the Christmas tree.

More Stylized Designs
Are To Be Seen In Gift Wrappings

BY MARION YOUNG

(Copyright, 1936, NEA Service, Inc.)
NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—This year's Christmas packages will be dressed in the modern manner. Formalized designs and geometric spacings on cards, ribbons and seals as well as wrapping papers have practically replaced old-fashioned "folksy" motifs.

Black papers, studded with white or silver stars, and white ones, striped with black, are prominently displayed. The new bright blue, so popular on Christmas cards, is found in many wrappings. Shades of brown and gold are important. And there are, of course, quantities of traditional red and green in new, formal patterns. Even dog papers are pretty sophisticated. Instead of the cuddly puppies and pet portraits of yesterday, you'll see pairs of stately borzoi, pacing majestically on a star-spinkled surface. On one new paper, Santa Claus and his reindeer career in broad arcs and form a kind of modernistic pattern on a silver-patterned Christmas tree, formalized until they look like small darts, alternate with squares of gold and silver.

Matched Materials

It's smart to work out an ensemble before you buy wrappings—certainly before you start to wrap even the first package. Certain papers look best when finished with certain ribbons and seals, so try out several combinations right while you're at the counter.

For example, one chic ensemble includes a black and white and silver paper; satin-finish cellophane tied, decorated with red poinsettias outlined in silver; card and seals of matching poinsettias with black leaves outlined in silver. A two-tone paper, half white with red and silver dots and half cream-colored with fine silver and red stripes, is teamed up with red and silver ribbon, silver Christmas tree seals and a silver card, trimmed with a little red tree.

One of the neatest tricks of the season is to use two papers, one plain and one figured, on a single package. If you are one of those people who have mountains of difficulty putting a box in one paper, let alone two, look for papers obligingly patterned so one-half of the sheet is plain, the other figured. Another up-to-date idea is to use plain white tissue first, then an overlay of patterned cellophane.

Overlapping Ties

Ties range to considerable widths this year. You can get an effective result by putting a very broad tie around a package, then placing a narrow tie right over the wide one.

Dinner Will Compliment
Colorado Educator

Southern California Alumni of Colorado State College of Education (formerly Colorado Teachers' college) are planning a special affair honoring the president of the institution, George W. Frasier, during his short visit in Los Angeles.

This compliment to Dr. Frasier is one of the many honors being paid him during his stay in the west, where he will be in attendance at various educational meetings. Scheduled for Saturday, December 13, the alumni party will be a 6:30 o'clock dinner at Clark hotel, 426 South Hill street, Los Angeles, with all graduates and former students of the college, planning to be present to do honor to their president.

Miss B. Pearl Nicholson, 1911 Spurgeon street, will make the necessary reservations for such students of Santa Ana or its vicinity, and anyone wishing to secure more detailed information regarding the plans, may telephone her at 2344-W.

Miss Linger Returns
Home For Holidays

Miss Corinne Linger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. O. Linger, 112 North Emily street, Anaheim, formerly of Santa Ana, arrived home yesterday morning from Seattle Pacific College, Wash., to spend the holidays with members of her family.

Miss Linger, who is a junior at the northern college, is vice president of Tiffany hall, secretary of the California club, and member of the staff of the Falcon, weekly publication. She expects to return to Seattle early in the new year.

Her brother, Charles Linger, a student at Los Angeles Pacific college, is expected home soon for the holidays.

Puppetry Demonstrated
For Entertainment
Of Ebells Group

Illustrating her talk with puppets of her own creation, Miss Mary Bowyer of the children's library, spoke yesterday to members of Child Study section of Ebells. Her subject was "Puppetry and Story Telling." She also read two short stories that would be suitable for small children.

The meeting was in the Aubrey Glines home, 1804 Greenleaf street. During the business meeting, a committee was appointed to select the section's gift to Ebells society. Mrs. R. C. Harris as chairman of the committee, will be assisted by Mesdames Robert Guild, Cassius Paul, Roscoe Conklin and Kenneth Ranney.

Refreshments were served at a large table decorated with poinsettias and tall red tapers. Mrs. Glines was assisted in serving by Mrs. John Ebersole, Mrs. Edward Russell and Mrs. Chester Horton. There were two guests present, Mrs. P. A. Kliever and Mrs. Harold Smith.

Employees' Auxiliary
Has Monthly Party

Guests from various Southland points were in Santa Ana Wednesday afternoon for a monthly party which auxiliary to Safeway Employees association held in the home of Mrs. P. G. Kilburn, 1227 Orange avenue. Hostesses with Mrs. Kilburn were three Anaheim residents, Mesdames L. C. Herron, F. M. Ball and G. W. Serr.

Red roses centered the affair when dessert was served early in the afternoon. Cards were played for the remainder of the time, with prizes going to Mrs. R. H. Richardson and Mrs. F. C. Campbell, who held high and low scores. Mrs. A. B. Muller received the traveling award.

Present were Mesdames R. T. Brown, C. R. Sackerson, A. C. Stokes, A. B. Muller and H. S. Wright, Santa Ana; F. C. Campbell and J. F. McNeess, Whittier; R. H. Richardson, Fullerton; K. H. Stewart, O. M. Jordan, Costa Mesa; Glenn Tramel, F. D. Blower, Balboa; O. K. Sutcliffe, G. S. Sparks, La Habra, with the four hostesses.

The next meeting will be held Wednesday, January 13, in the home of Mrs. Richardson.

AT CLUB CARNIVAL

An annual hospitality on the part of Mrs. James Irvine to her sister members in the Assistance League club was staged yesterday when Mrs. Irvine was luncheon hostess to all the regular and associate members of the group, at the Johathon club in Los Angeles.

The fact that yesterday initiated the Christmas carnival season in the beautiful clubhouse, made the hospitality of unusual interest. Tables reserved for the party, like those of the various luncheon groups, were in festive array. Great plaques of scarlet poinsettias contributed exactly the right Yule atmosphere.

Mrs. Irvine's party numbered exactly three dozen, and instead of devoting the afternoon to bridge, as is the club custom, they joined in the carnival events on every side. Fortune telling was one of the most interesting of these varied features.

SEWING CLUB

Covered dish luncheon was served to sewing club members who were guests early this week in the home of Mrs. Earl Lepper, 2208 Maple street.

Mrs. Haines Alinsworth was a guest. Members in the group were Mesdames Raymond Couch, Jesse Wright, Harold Smith, Paul Ames, John Cozad and the hostess, all of this community; with Mrs. Byron Taves of Midway City.

Plans For Yule Party
Give Pleasure To Altrusa Club

Yielding to the pervasive charm of the season, Altrusa club members "went Christmas" last night when Miss Dewey Neumeyer entertained in her home, 218 East Seventeenth street.

Almost the first thing to meet the gaze of arriving guests was the sparkle of the little Christmas tree enthroned on a table and ready to receive holly-decked packages. However the tree and its inviting fruit had to wait their place in Miss Neumeyer's plans for the evening.

These included the serving of a dessert course at a table reflecting the party theme with its quaintly formal cellophane holly sprays, its fluted nut cups, place cards and holly spray favors. In a series of contests which followed, Miss Grace Elizabeth Lansing and Mrs. Laura Warren won prizes which were enjoyed as a part of the interval when the change of Christmas gifts occurred, with each one present receiving a prettily wrapped package from the tree.

Mrs. Cora Prather, club president, introduced a short business discussion for the purpose of receiving club ideas as to nominations for national Altrusa officers. To be sent at once to headquarters by the secretary, Miss Mary Andrews. Otherwise the evening was entirely social, and was shared by the hostess, Miss Neumeyer, with Mrs. Prather, Miss Andrews, Miss Lansing, Miss Helen Gallagher, Miss Mary Howard, Mrs. Irene McFaul, Mrs. Warren and Mrs. Emmett Elliott.

Dana Lamb Talks
For Travel Section

Adventures which started when Mr. and Mrs. Dana Lamb left here three years ago in their canoe-sail boat were summarized by Mr. Lamb Wednesday evening when he presented an informal program in Ebells clubhouse lounge.

Mrs. Arthur Wade, leader of Junior Ebells Travel section which was sponsor of the event, introduced the speaker. He outlined the trip which he and Mrs. Lamb took to Mexico, and on to the Cocos Island, where they spent six months.

After an hour's talk, he conducted a half hour of general discussion, with Mrs. Lamb contributing interesting points during this interval. Some of the many ways in which she prepared fish and game during the three years' outing, were described.

AFTERNOON OF CARDS

Mrs. J. B. Tucker received members of her contract bridge club Tuesday afternoon in her home, 701 East Santa Clara avenue, where red-berried shrubbery was used in decorating.

Luncheon was served to members including Mesdames R. A. Emerson, Herbert Miller, John Ball, Lawrence Coffin, Hugh Lowe, P. Kennedy, Horace Stevens, Fred Forgy, all of this city; Mrs. Baxter Jouvenot, of Los Angeles, and the hostess. Absent members were Mrs. Dexter Ball and Mrs. Harvey Smith.

FAMILY DINNER

Gathering a small family group for a dinner in honor of her husband's return from Taft where he is employed, Mrs. Lee Roelands was hostess in her home at 1316 French street Thursday afternoon.

Mr. Roelands will return to the northern city in several days to continue his work.

Those in the group included Mrs. F. C. Salter and Miss Addie Cook, Mrs. Roelands' mother and aunt from Placentia; Beverly and Patricia Roelands, daughters of the home, and Mr. and Mrs. Roelands.

Varied Program Given
For Ebells Antique
Section

Although the greater part of Ebells Antique section's meeting Wednesday afternoon was given over to talks on old silver, Wedgewood and other articles dear to the hearts of the antique enthusiasts, one of the most enjoyable features of the program was a discussion of "Christmas Traditions."

Mrs. Arthur May's home, 730 South Birch street was setting for the meeting. D. H. Preble gave a fascinating talk on "Old Silver"; Mrs. Loyal K. King, on "Wedgewood"; and Mrs. M. W. Hollingsworth demonstrated the refinishing of wood.

Mrs. May, who is leader of the section, read a short story, "Tradition of the Christmas Tree and Yule Log," and Mrs. Ralph Arnold gave a history of Christmas carols. Mrs. May and Mrs. Emil Wagner sang a group of holiday songs.

Hostesses for the affair were Mrs. Harry Huffman, Mrs. C. E. Bressler, Mrs. Wagner and Mrs. May, who served refreshments from a table covered with a Nativity scene arranged by Mrs. Huffman. Mrs. Robert Northcross poured tea.

Guests were Mrs. Philip M. Brown, Mrs. W. C. May, Mrs. F. H. Patterson and Mrs. Arnold. New members welcomed were Mesdames A. B. Smith, Robert Northcross, E. B. Howell.

The section's next meeting will be a field trip to San Pedro Wednesday, January 13.

Marvin Rohrs Begins
Around-the-World
Trip Today

Many times planned and postponed because of the shipping situation, an around the world trip for Marvin Rohrs, 1444 East Seventeenth street, was scheduled to begin this afternoon when he boarded the N. Y. K. liner Tayo Maru in San Francisco.

Mr. Rohrs left Los Angeles last night by train for the northern city. The Tayo Maru will sail for Yokohama, docking there for from 10 to 12 days, and then continuing to other Japanese and Chinese points for a three weeks' stay.

The traveler will sail on a Dutch liner for Hongkong, Manila, Singapore, Java and other points. He will spend some time in Port Said, Egypt, continuing from there to Monopoli, Italy, Switzerland, Germany, Holland, Belgium, France and last of all, England, where he will be visited by Mr. Rohrs. He expects to return home in about six months' time.

Queen Crowned During Rankin's Holiday Banquet

Rankin's Christmas party this year was even more festive than usual, for it boasted a crowning ceremony during which Mrs. Marie Fowler became queen of the banquet by virtue of her position as captain of the winning team in a contest just closed by employees of the store.

Y. W. C. A. rooms were setting for the festivities, shared by 85 members and guests of the Rankin store family. Although the dinner was provided by Rankin's, it was the responsibility of members of the losing team, the silver stars, to plan the menu and all other details of the party. Gordon Cizek, captain of this group, delegated duties to Mrs. Gail Ray, who took charge of the kitchen; Esther Coffman and Edna Wood, decorations; Alberta Blake, entertainment.

Mrs. Fowler and her gold stars were accorded places of honor at long tables decorated with up-standing silver stars holding gleaming candles. White cellophane Christmas trees and other appointments added to the attractive setting arranged for the occasion. Welcome Sivers and Esther Schultz were trumpeters, providing a fanfare of music as Lord Chancellor Cizek and his team entered the room.

Before Mrs. Fowler took her place with her team workers, she was crowned queen with ceremonies in which Miss Evelyn Scherbert, Mrs. Estelle Kudaly, Edna Wood and others took special part. There was a coronation robe of blue for the queen. Herbert P. Rankin presided as master of ceremonies.

Following dinner, the group adjourned to the lounge, where a lavishly-decked tree with its accompanying packages was the center of interest. Gifts were distributed by Santa Claus, whose role was filled by Merwin Carman, former employee of Rankin's.

The Mixing Bowl

By Ann Meredith

The taste buds of today's human being may be spoiled, but that's okay, for it gives me the opportunity to tell you about two superb meat sauces, one to serve with steak, the other with roast lamb or beef.

German Steak Sauce
1 glass of currant jelly
1 tablespoon fresh grated horseradish
1 teaspoon prepared mustard
Speck of salt and pepper
Salad oil and orange juice in equal parts, to dilute the jelly.

Put the jelly into a small bowl, set in a larger bowl of cracked ice. Beat jelly to break it, and gradually add each ingredient, beating well. When finished, the sauce should be of dripping consistency and should be served before it has a chance to thin and separate.

Hunter's Sauce
With Roast Beef or Lamb
2 cups rich brown gravy from roast (thickened)
Juice of 1 lemon
1 small can mushroom, sliced
2 large tomatoes, peeled and sliced
1 tablespoon, each, minced onion and parsley
Dash of cayenne and salt.

Mix sauce in order listed with the exception of the diced tomato; this goes in just before the sauce goes to table. Each slice of roast is supposed to be libated with the sauce.

Today's the day to send in your request for a copy of the Safe and Sane reducing diet (please don't forget to enclose the required stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

Carrot Patties

1-2 cups cooked mashed carrots
1-2 cups cooked rice
1 tablespoon grated onion
1-2 teaspoon celery salt
Salt and pepper

Mash and blend rice and carrots well; add other ingredients. Shape into small cakes dip in cracker meal, then in egg and again in cracker meal. Let stand a few minutes before frying to a golden brown (in bacon fat, eh?) Serve with cheese sauce as a main dish, or plain, as a vegetable.

Baked Peas, a Meat Substitute
2 cups green split peas
1 onion, minced
1-2 cup diced raw ham
2 tablespoons fat
Salt and pepper

Cook onion and raw ham in fat until browned. Add raw split peas and stir until parched (best to scoop out onion and ham first). Add water to cover and cook slowly for 45 minutes. Add tomato pulp, and slip into oven until top browns a trifle.

Serve with cooked green vegetable and a crisp salad.

No wonder the whaling business was in its hey-day when this dessert was concocted! It would take more than whale bone and the old cast-iron corsets to confine the curves this dessert produced!

Bisque Cream
1 cup sugar
1 cup water
4 eggs, whites beaten stiff
6 tablespoons sifted macaroons
Sherry to flavor
3 pints whipping cream
Forget the whipping cream and do this: open and chill a tall can of evaporated milk. In the meantime, boil sugar and water, reducing by a half. Stir in the beaten egg yolks, cook for 2 minutes, then

FOR YULE DANCE

Filmy black lace with fine black crepe are combined by Rosevienna to fashion an exquisite dinner dress. Note the flared peplum, gold metal chain belt, jabot and puffed sleeves.

Relief Corps

Mrs. Hattie Cozad was elected president of Sedgwick W. R. C. at the regular meeting in M. W. A. hall Wednesday afternoon. She will be assisted during the coming year by Mrs. Cora Adams, senior vice president; Mrs. Anna Scott, junior vice president; Mrs. Beatrice Hostler, chaplain; Mrs. Nedra Bryerton, treasurer; Mrs. Meta Caldwell, conductor; and Mrs. Alice Milligan, guard.

Delegates for the spring convention were also elected. They are Mesdames Emma Mosbaugh, Letta Morgan, Anna Scott, Alice Milligan, with Beatrice Hostler, Minnie Squires, Aretta Campbell and Daisy Ross as alternates.

It was reported that there was $24.50 in the Christmas fund, and seven bouquets were donated. Both national and department general orders were read. It was announced that there was an invitation to attend the social given by the Shiloh circle, Ladies of the G. A. R., given for wives and comrades of G. A. R. This will be December 18 at 2 o'clock in M. W. A. hall. The charter was draped for Mrs. Bell McConnell and Mrs. Fannie Newman who passed away recently.

It was announced that a former member who lived in this city, Mrs. Lena Walters, who has been in the Portland hospital for the past four months, is now convalescing at her home at 535 Northwest Eighteenth avenue, Portland, Ore.

USE AIDS SILVER

Far from usage marring sterling silverware, experts now agree that silver which has received millions of tiny scratches from daily use actually has a durable and practical finish that it would otherwise lack. To prove this, they point with pride to priceless antique silver, handed down from Colonial days and more beautiful now than it was then. Naturally, precious silver shouldn't be thrown about in the sink or, after a meal, left standing dirty overnight. Simply wash with hot, soapy water, rinse carefully and dry with a soft cloth. In case some of the pieces are highly ornate, go over these you put them away, with a bit of silver polish before

CITY COUNCIL OF FULLERTON HUNTING SITE

Something unique in the annals of city council meetings occurred in Fullerton last night when a specially called meeting of the Fullerton council ended in the five councilmen leaving the council chambers, getting into a car driven by one of them, and driving around to find a likely location for a new city hall for Fullerton.

The suggestion for such a drive was made by Councilman Hans H. Kohnenberger, who said that "If we are to keep this $24,000 grant we must have something to offer when we ask for an extension of time, if it is possible to come to some agreement."

According to Mayor Harry G. Maxwell, the meeting was called to determine the best way to get an extension of time on starting a new city hall that the city may no longer have the $24,000 grant offered by the Federal government with the stipulation that work be started by January 11. It was determined by Councilmen George Little and Walter Muckenthaler, along with City Engineer Herman Hiltcher, to interview Ray E. Rabold, director for this district of the PWA projects, in Los Angeles today.

In addition to her son, who lives in Santa Ana Mrs. Oewiler is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Mary Catherine Gillespie of Corredora, Philippine Islands.

HALF-ACRE in EDEN

BEGIN HERE TODAY

MARCIA CAMPFIELD, daughter of wealthy PHILIP CAMPFIELD, meets BILLIE McDougall, artist, shortly after the mysterious disappearance of FRANK KENDRICK, to whom Marcia had been engaged. When she realizes she was never in love with him, McDougall is attracted to DOROTHY OSBORN, who dislikes Marcia, leads him to believe Marcia is engaged to another man.

There is a bank holdup and police commander the Confield car to follow the bandits. The car is wrecked and both Marcia and her father are injured. McDougall, driving with Dorothy, arrives on the scene and takes Marcia and her father to the hospital.

Their injuries are slight. Although Marcia's arm is in a sling, she takes part in an amateur play a short time afterward. A New York producer attends the performance and offers Dorothy a part in his new production.

Marcia gives a party for Dorothy, Bruce goes with JOE FORD, and HELEN WAIDELL, close friend of Marcia's, hereafter a gossip, discussing Marcia's engagement to Kendrick.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXVI

HELEN said with cold anger, "Let's get out of here."

Obediently McDougall rose and followed her into the hall, out of hearing of the two in the room beyond the library. Through the arched doorway they could see the dancers, the groups of talkers around the walls. Midway down the hall Helen paused.

"You'll wonder what it's all about," she said.

McDougall gave his best imitation of a man who does not require to be told a thing.

"It's just a matter of petty, local gossip," said Helen. "I'm not suggesting you want to be in on it, but I ought to explain why it made me so angry."

"That's Mrs. Charles Horton whom Mike is talking with back there. She can't let up over something that happened here some months ago. There was a sequel to the thing that happened, and as far as I can see it concerned Marcia alone."

IT was all considerably mystifying, McDougall reflected as he walked toward Dorothy Osborn's house late on Monday afternoon. Dorothy was to sit for his sketch, and he was to stay for dinner—the dinner he had missed before, Dorothy had said without rancor.

Dorothy was waiting for him—a cordial Dorothy, but he had never known her otherwise—in the now attractive living room, but he had never known it when it was unattractive. Mrs. Osborn, when he entered, came in to greet him and then retired to kitchen duties.

"I won't pretend," said Dorothy, "that I am anything but thrilled."

Edward's Race Horse Out Of Hurdle Event

LONDON, Dec. 11.—(UP)—A few moments after Edward VIII formally had renounced his throne in a message to the house of commons, it was announced that the former king's race horse, Fairfield, had been withdrawn from tomorrow's Milbourn hurdle race at Sandown park.

The royal colors which his jockeys were now being to his successor.

BRITISH EMPIRE ACCEPTS RULER

LONDON, Dec. 11.—(UP)—Through the length and breadth of the British empire today, white men, black men, and brown men—millions upon millions of every race united as "British subjects"—accepted without a murmur a dramatic, sudden change of sovereignty, "Dawn under" in Canberra, the new capital of Australia, the dominion parliament passed without a record vote a resolution assenting to the abdication of King Edward and the succession of the Duke of York, and became the first empire parliament to do so. It acted even before the "mother of parliaments."

While Australia acted, those other fragments of the empire with self governing status—Canada, the Irish Free State, New Zealand, South Africa, Newfoundland—also assembled their parliaments to do likewise.

There and in the crown colonies and the empire of India, the news of Edward's abdication had been received sadly but as an inevitable and irrevocable act and today there already was joy in the ascension of his brother.

Throughout the empire, there was no expression of dissent from responsible quarters, but the Irish Free State, usually unsympathetic toward England, was ready to take advantage of the crisis to further weaken its ties to the empire.

EDITOR TO APPEAR ON LIBEL CHARGE

MOUNTAIN VIEW, Cal., Dec. 11.—(UP)—P. Milton (Pop) Smith, publisher of the Mountain View Register, will appear before Justice of the Peace Grandin Miller in San Jose on December 14 to answer charges of criminal libel against President Roosevelt. The libel charges were brought by Horace T. Beale, president of the Patriotic League of Mountain View.

The charge was based on an editorial written by Smith in which he described Roosevelt as a "smiling hypocrite, a mountebank of the lowest order and the biggest false alarm since the creation of man."

The editorial appeared in the Register Leader—a weekly paper—after Roosevelt's landslide victory.

McDougall regretting the subject, bent over his sketch, abandoning for the time his frequent appraising glances at his model.

"For instance," Dorothy continued, "there's a girl in town whom, to be frank, I never appreciated until recently. She was rather the victim of gossip by persons who considered themselves affected, and even of others who had no real interest at all."

Marcia, of course. Wherever he turned, there was a reflection of Marcia.

"That's a bad start," he said harshly. "Let's begin again and get it right."

He had found on the drawing block, in the outline of Dorothy Osborn's face, the eyes of Marcia Campfield.

"SOMETHING," said McDougall to himself as he walked homeward, "has done away with what I used to consider my sense of humor. I used to have a different perspective. Sometimes hope and realization, sometimes hope and disappointment, but never, by George, such hugging of a secret sorrow to my aching bosom."

He passed the street on which, two blocks down, Mike and Joan lived. It was not yet 11 o'clock. He turned and went toward their house.

Joan opened the door.

"Welcome," she said. "Come in and witness the homicide."

"What's going on?" asked McDougall.

"Just like her mother," shouted Mike from the living room. "Loses an argument and wants to kill the winner."

"It's Home versus Career," said Joan.

"What? Are you looking for a job?"

"Not my career, Mike's."

"How is home hurting Mike's career?"

"Well," said Joan, "I'd like to buy a house, whereas Mike has a stupid idea that he..."

"Hold everything!" interrupted Mike. "I have another idea!"

"He has another stupid idea," Joan amended.

"Wait a minute," said Mike. "Wait—I'll be right back. This makes it perfect!"

"Something," said Joan as he disappeared, "like two negatives making a positive, I suppose. But I mustn't complain. Everybody has a cross to bear."

BECCERRO TAKES STAND IN OWN DEFENSE TODAY

Filberto Becerro, of Orange, was on the witness stand in his own defense as trial of the murder charge against him was adjourned by Superior Judge H. G. Ames late yesterday to next Monday morning.

Becerro, accused of stabbing Pablo Balderama to death in a street fight at Orange last October, was the second witness called by the defense, after the prosecution rested its case at 4 p. m.

Police Officer John Elstite, of Orange, who participated in the arrest of Becerro at the scene of the fight, testified to conditions he found when he reached the scene.

Becerro then began his story of the affair. He recalled clearly his various movements leading up to his meeting with Balderama, but was unable to remember details of the encounter itself.

Councilman Smith told of the effects of the city to get nearly 2,000 parcels of city property, now owned by the state, back on the county tax roll, and the desire of the legislators to rejuvenate the present zoning and planning code.

Croddy's report resulted in a vote by the board that George Schneider, lecturer at the University of Southern California, be engaged to conduct a course here on real estate financing. The school will begin Jan. 20.

HANSON RESIGNS OFFICE OF MAYOR

SANTA BARBARA, Dec. 11.—(UP)—Another chapter in the stormy political life of Mayor Edmond O. Hanson of Santa Barbara was concluded today with his unexpected resignation before the city council last night.

William S. Crawford, president of the council, will serve as mayor until the next municipal election in June. Hanson's resignation will take effect at once. He was in office 19 months.

"The duties of the office I now hold are too great for a normal human being to endure," the fiery mayor said. "The health of my family makes it imperative they have complete rest and quiet."

Hanson survived a spirited recall election earlier this year. He is now under charges of contempt of court and must appear in Ventura for trial December 15. He is a brother of Ole Hanson, famous "wartime mayor" of Seattle.

Francis J. Fisher, 37, Los Angeles salesman, was arrested yesterday afternoon by a California highway officer and charged with drunk driving and being drunk on county highway.

V. M. Moore, Route 2, Box 200, Anaheim, made application to the board of supervisors yesterday for permission to establish an automobile wrecking yard between Fullerton street and Grand avenue, in Buena Park. The application is customary, was referred to the sheriff's office for checking.

John Andre, 45, Portuguese milk man of Los Alamitos, was being sought today by sheriff's officers, as a missing person. His nephew, Frank Andre, Route 1, Box 286, Buena Park, reported his absence. When he left in his green Pontiac sedan, Andre wore blue overalls and cap. He is five feet eight inches tall, weighs 150 pounds, has brown hair and eyes and is dark complexioned.

John Faught's kit of telephone installation tools, valued at $20, was recovered by city police yesterday from Sid Broderick of 325 South Lemon, Anaheim, who found the kit at Fifteenth and Main, where it had been lost from Faught's truck.

On report of Jack Reed, 1017 East Chestnut, that a man was being in the neighborhood, Officers R. S. Elliott and Ed Lentz sought out and arrested Ned Jeters, 45, San Francisco Negro, and jailed him on a drunk charge. Jeters was both hungry and thirsty, the officers indicated.

Officers W. Moreland, Charles Neer, L. C. Snodgrass and Burnett Lane were unable to find the prowler reported near the Moore home, 605 South Van Ness, about 7:45 o'clock last night. Mrs. Moore said she called to the man as he was prowling about the back yard and he disappeared at once.

REALTY BOARD ASKED TO BACK BUILDING CODE

An appeal to members of the Santa Ana Realty Board to continue to manifest interest in city council affairs, to support the present building code and to aid various other civic movements, was carried to the board in regular weekly luncheon session today by Councilman Joe Smith, water and sewer committee member.

The session was presided over by W. C. Hill, president, and featured by reports from W. F. Croddy, chairman of the committee named recently to draft an educational program for the group, and the naming of another committee to investigate problems of rentals in the city. This group is composed of Ray Goodcell, chairman, Oliver Lindemeyer and V. L. Brown.

Councilman Smith told of the effects of the city to get nearly 2,000 parcels of city property, now owned by the state, back on the county tax roll, and the desire of the legislators to rejuvenate the present zoning and planning code.

Croddy's report resulted in a vote by the board that George Schneider, lecturer at the University of Southern California, be engaged to conduct a course here on real estate financing. The school will begin Jan. 20.

The body will be sent to Tacoma, Wash., tonight for burial by the Smith and Tutill mortuary of this city. Gambell is survived by his widow, Mrs. Ruth S. Gambell.

WAR OF TRIBES ENDED BY FLYER

SYDNEY (UP)—Planes are being used in Australia's outlying territories to break up battles between warring tribesmen by the simple process of scaring them into flight.

Charles Bates, district patrolman in New Guinea, has described the first triumph of aviation in this new field.

Bates had been informed that a sanguinary battle was in progress on a part of the island. He immediately hastened to the battle scene and informed the chiefs of the contending tribes that the warfare must cease. His edict, however, brought results.

Cogitating how he should perform his duty as a patrolman and peace officer in the island, he learned that an aviator had just arrived at a nearby settlement. The flier Kevin Harer, listened to Bates' plan and accepted. At once they took to the air for the scene of battle where some 800 warriors were lined up for the fray.

It only took one downward swoop of the plane—the first the natives had ever seen—to convince them that flight was preferable to battle, and the war came to a sudden end.

REDS IN CHINA CARRY BANNER OF PATRIOTISM

By FRANCIS FISHER
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

PEIPING, Dec. 7.—The Chinese Communist Party has gone respectable. No longer does it seek directly to overthrow government. A revolution to purge China of the "class enemies" of the workers and peasants forms no part of its new program.

On the contrary, capitalists and industrialists have been invited to Communist areas. Small shops, kept open and manufacturers are promised support and exemption from onerous taxes. Private property no longer is confiscated. Wealthy landowning farmers are guaranteed against immediate expropriation and redistribution of the land. Mohammedans and Christians, as well as other religious groups, are encouraged under a new freedom of worship policy.

In a word, Chinese Communists have abandoned, at least postponed, their struggle toward a social revolution, a "class war." A strictly nationalist doctrine, a call to "save China for the Chinese," has taken its place.

"China Comes First"

In this starting switch to nationalism, Communists argued that China first must be saved from becoming a colony of Japan. Time enough to fight out questions of political doctrine and administration afterward, was the argument.

The threat to China, as the Communists see it, and their resulting new policy, are stated in a manifesto issued by the party's Central Executive Committee.

"Japan aims to colonize China by manipulating the appointment of 'Chinese' rascals and traitorous governments like the Hopen-Chai Political Council."

To meet this crisis Communists suggest that all patriotic Chinese join in the formation of a National Defense government. The basic policy is resistance against the Japanese to save the nation and recover lost territories. Other planks resemble those of reform administrations.

Territorial Integrity Demanded

"All policies and efforts," the manifesto continues, "are henceforth intended for one fundamental object, namely, the rescue of China from the danger of extinction and the realization of the independence, freedom and territorial integrity of the Chinese nation."

All Chinese who have this common object, irrespective of whatever class or party, are welcomed and urged to unite to fight (against Japan).

"Not until the Chinese nation is safe from the danger of extinction can essential reforms or reconstruction even be discussed. No matter how divergent our views may be in regard to the reform of internal administration in China, we should all unite to fight for the rescue of China as a nation."

The immediate result of this program and its propaganda was to open the way for scattered Red Army units to concentrate in a single area for the first time in years. They now occupy a large part of eastern Kansu and western Shensi. Redoubtable Moslem warriors, China's best fighters, who had hitherto barred the way, were cajoled and mollified by the new religious freedom clause. Central government troops also had to be withdrawn from strategic points to meet the threat of revolt in the Southwest. Red armies marched.

Red Leaders Confer

Not since the Communists were jettisoned by the Kuomintang in 1927 have the eight or ten powerful Communist leaders been able to bring their veteran armies into a single area. It is known that these leaders have met and conferred. It is whispered that a challenging invitation is being sent to all armies, war lords, parties and leaders to attend a National Defense conference and form a National Defense government.

The new program won immediate support from all patriotic students, many lower rank soldiers, left-wing intellectuals, and even, it is said, some Kuomintang dissidents. These elements have combined to form a People's United Front, whose policies are practically indistinguishable from those of the new Communist program.

The strength of the new movement lies chiefly in the recognized fighting power of the Communist armies, the appeal of the program to widely separated groups, and in the clear-cut simplicity of the challenge: "Are you ready to fight to save China?" Opponents are forced into awkward and complex explanations.

Many weaknesses can be enumerated, such as the apathy and aversion to any sort of fighting on the part of China's vast illiterate population, and the present lack of a single inspiring leader. More vital is a lack of adequate arms and ammunition and of funds to purchase them and finance a campaign.

Railroad Busy
Yet It Warns
Of Suspension

NEW YORK, (UP)—Thousands of miles of railroads have become streaks of rust in the last decade due to lack of patronage, but the New York, Westchester and Boston R. R. is believed to be the first line overburdened with traffic to face extinction.

The plight of the rail line is unique in transportation. More than a million commuters use its facilities yearly and yet it is on the verge of abandonment. Clinton T. Bardo, trustee for the line, said that if officials of the localities served by the railroad do not come to its aid by reducing taxes, the line would suspend operations Dec. 31. This would throw 350 employees out of work.

Originally intended as a direct route from New York to Boston, the line was taken over in 1907 by the New Haven, which paid $14,000,000 for a franchise.

Duck Hooked
To Evade Ban
On Shotguns

FORT WORTH, Tex. (UP)—For several years a city ordinance has prohibited hunters from shooting ducks at Lake Worth, near Fort Worth.

This fall, one duck-killer circumvented that law by catching ducks on a trot-line. A regulation 150-foot line was set in a shallow part of the lake, its hooks baited with grains of corn. Ducks swallowed the corn, and the hook, and drowned within a few minutes.

The cruelty of the plan so enraged Walter Hale, lake officer, that he watched the line for 48 hours, but nobody ever came to inspect the trap.

Hale searched the statutes and found there was no law against catching ducks—merely against shooting them. He did find, however, that federal and state regulations prohibited trapping of ducks with cruel tactics.

EUROPE CITED FOR ATLANTIC AIRLINE DELAY

STRATFORD, Conn. (UP)—Trans-Atlantic air passenger service on a 10-hour schedule between New York and London could have been in operation two years ago were it not for the precarious political situation in Europe, according to Igor I. Sikorsky, airplane designer.

America, he said, has been ready during that time, but the backwardness of Europe in aviation, together with jealousy of the strides made in this country, has retarded opening of regular aerial passenger routes across the Atlantic.

Instead, conquests have been turned toward the Pacific, across which huge clipper ships now soar with ease and regularity.

Jealousy Cited Handicap

"It would not do for American ships to begin the trans-Atlantic service," he said. "Europe is not ready at the present time, nor has she been ready to do the same thing. America is far advanced in aviation, more than any other country in the world, and for us to have the distinction of beginning this feat, without them meeting us on equal ground, simply would not do."

However, he predicted establishment of such a two-way service in 1937.

"Ships will be flying over the Atlantic in both directions next year. Our present day ships are capable of doing this, and can bring a passenger from London at 8 p. m. to New York by 10 o'clock the following morning."

The present objective, he declared, is to establish the travel lanes at higher altitudes—between 20,000 and 25,000 feet—thereby escaping storms and enjoying almost constant good visibility and comfortable flying conditions.

Higher Altitude Unpractical

Above that altitude, getting into the stratosphere, he said, would not do for passenger travel because of the need of air-tight planes and the necessity for artificial breathing conditions. This sphere, he pointed out, eventually might be used for a fast freight service.

"As it is today, aviation is fast enough for the size of our planet. Nature has placed upon us, for some reasons not explainable, limitations on speed."

Regarding the future of aviation, Sikorsky said the pioneering era has passed, and "people have come to accept the plane as they do the radio, the automobile, washing machine and other modern conveniences. To buy an airplane ticket from New York to San Francisco is no longer an event, it is a part of our modern lives."

He visualized ships of the near future as luxury airliners, with dining rooms, dance floors, promenade decks and "everything but swimming pools."

TURKEY SALES THANKSGIVING SET HIGH MARK

The American people ate more turkey on Thanksgiving Day, 1936, than they have ever previously consumed on this national holiday.

This information was received today by H. S. Wright, District Manager of Safeway Stores. The statement was made by George Makins, General Manager of the California Turkey Growers' Association, the largest organization of turkey producers in the country. Reports from all turkey producing sections of the country show a tremendous movement during the last week of November, Mr. Makins said.

In eating his Thanksgiving turkey this year the American consumer expressed his gratitude because there was a turkey for every pot. Ten days before Thanksgiving there were 20,000,000 of the birds "on the hoof." The average turkey is a dinner for more than six or seven persons, which meant enough turkey for every inhabitant of the United States, with some left over for Christmas.

A turkey in the barn-yard is far from being roast turkey on the table. It was here that the chain stores of the nation, with their unusual facilities for distribution, entered into the celebration of Thanksgiving.

There are more than five million farmers who grow turkeys. In many sections it is one of the few winter cash crops. As turkeys began to move into the markets it was disclosed that there were five million birds in excess of last year's crop. The market was threatened with demoralization.

This brought an emergency appeal to the national Association of Food Chains with headquarters in Washington, D. C. More than 125 urgent telegrams poured in from farm groups, poultry associations, marketing organizations and producers, representing a membership of three million farmers.

The chain stores immediately threw all their resources into the greatest turkey drive that had ever been carried on. They brought turkeys to the consumer with inducements that could not be resisted. By advertising and sales promotion they increased the normal demand for turkeys. They stemmed the tide of falling prices that threatened disaster to the producer.

The turkey drive is not over. It will continue during the entire month of December leading up to another big sale for the Christmas and New Year's holidays. It was not possible to consume 20,000,000 turkeys in a single feast and there are many left. The quality of the fowl is exceptional this season, the prices are low and the supply is still equal to the demand.

The successful campaign of the chain stores to dispose of a surplus of turkeys has brought many expressions of appreciation from poultry producers in all parts of the nation. For the benefit of agriculture it is urged that the farmer-consumer campaigns of the chain stores be continued.

STUDENTS PRESENT DRAMA OF INDIANS

TUSTIN, Dec. 11.—The Third Grade pupils of the Tustin Grammar school entertained their parents and friends recently with an original play under the direction of their teacher, Mrs. Myrtle Shallenberger.

This play was the culmination of a study of Indian life covering several weeks. A background of information was gained by reading many books on Indian life. The dramatization centered about the building of a canoe, making a fire, the hot stone method of boiling water, grinding acorns in a stone bowl and the use of the travois in moving about. The children made their own costumes and painted the scenery used in the play.

An exhibit of Indian handicraft including tom-toms, clay bowls and beads, postcards and illustrated booklets of stories was also enjoyed by the guests.

SALT IS HELD AS GREAT BOON TO HUMANITY

By Helen Blair

No commodity of present day usage has a more fascinating and romantic history than salt. Historic legends agree. From that ancient day when the Roman warrior received a portion of his wage, known as the "salarium" in this valued goods, it has become woven into the very texture of our life and language.

Salt has influenced the locations of nations and cities; it has been the cause of wars, has given rise to any number of superstitions and religious beliefs and, together with air and water, formed one of the three foremost needs of human life.

One would have only to do without this commodity for a short period of time to realize fully its priceless worth, science affirms. It has no less than 1400 uses, ranging from melting ice on sidewalks to medicinal properties. Its culinary uses are innumerable, and it is indispensable to both the home and industry. Small wonder then that more than eight billion pounds of this product are produced annually in the United States.

Enemy of Gout

And yet its most amazing use is of more recent discovery. The medical world is now looking to this gift of nature to stamp out one of the most serious dangers which threatens the human race—the menace of gout.

This disorder is considered by science as one of the greatest scourges, directly and indirectly, of human suffering, and is discovered to be among the commonest causes of ill health among children from six to 18. The malady is attributed to a deficiency of iodine in the human system and corrected by the addition of a tiny amount of this element to table salt.

Looking for cooperation in their battle on this disease medical authorities turned to the Morton Salt Co., as leaders in the field and requested the manufacture of a table salt containing a trace of tasteless iodine.

Chemists Supervise
This has been the practice of this company since 1924 with health results exceeding the wildest expectations. It is averred.

Morton's Iodized Salt is treated with iodine by automatic machines which regulate the content of this ingredient. Certified chemists constantly supervise this operation.

Today salt is not the coarse, impure product made by the ancients along the Dead Sea and worth a king's ransom. It is a pure product of 20th century industry available for all humanity in the interest of patrolling their blood stream so that chemical fluids may be kept in proper balance.

TRAVELS 130 MILES, CAT COMES BACK

EASTHAM, Mass.—(UP)—The cat came back, but only after wandering 130 miles from home.

When Mrs. Charles MacKenzie, Provincetown summer resident, took her new pet to her winter home in Auburndale this fall, the cat manifested its displeasure by leaving home.

Weeks later Mrs. Elizabeth M. Bohm of this town reported a stray cat to the Animal Rescue League. It was Mrs. MacKenzie's pet en route to Provincetown fish wharves, only three towns away.

The cat was expressed to its owner in a stout box.

Lantern Man Likes Job At Bryn Mawr

BRYN MAWR, Pa.—(UP)—The "Lantern Man" is back on the job at fashionable Bryn Mawr college this semester.

For nine years, Joe Hagarty has had the job of carrying a lantern to the railroad station to meet incoming night trains and escort the girls to the dormitory.

The "Lantern Man" tradition dates back to the 60s, when the approach to the college was more lonely than now.

Hagarty, a 35-year-old bachelor, says he likes the job better than his previous work in Ireland, where he was promoted from a trucker to a train conductor.

OHIO DRYS SEE SHOWDOWN ON LIQUOR IN 1940

COLUMBUS, O.—(UP)—Looking forward to the campaign of 1940, it is conceivable that Ohio may be the political battleground for an important fight between wets and drys.

Ohio actually is more than two-thirds dry now. That is to say, more than two-thirds of the state's political subdivisions prohibit the sale of hard liquor.

In the 1936 election, 105 subdivisions, including townships and small municipalities, voted to prohibit the sale of intoxicating liquor and 87 voted to outlaw the sale of beer.

884 Townships Dry
Of the 1937 townships in Ohio, 884 now forbid the sale of hard liquor and 294 prohibit beer.

Ohio many times in the past has been called the cradle of prohibition, and Westerville is the nation's dry capital.

Westerville, a peaceful village a few miles from Columbus, is the home of Dr. Howard Hyde Russell, founder of the Anti-Saloon League and one of the most militant of a long line of warriors for the dry cause.

Ohio voted wet by a heavy majority in 1933 when the question of repeal of the 18th Amendment was submitted. The state's vote was 1,444,033 for repeal; 584,238 against. Most of the wet vote was piled up in metropolitan areas.

Prohibition Gains Claimed
In each year since repeal, however, Ohio dry leaders have claimed increasing sentiment in favor of return to prohibition.

Oddly, the dry fight has been carried on quietly. There has been little of the old time crusading and bar-wrecking that characterized the war on liquor in another day.

The attitude of the drys is that liquor will defeat itself, with little assistance from the anti-alcoholic ranks.

"People are getting sick and tired of the way liquor places are being run," said S. P. McNaught, superintendent of the Ohio Anti-Saloon League. "The state liquor department is pouring water on our wheel all the time because they refuse to do anything about it."

"After this we'll win every election that we try."

LIVING PROOF OF A GREAT DISCOVERY

CHRISTOPHER COLUMBUS was prepared to prove his discovery of a new and strange land in the west, for with him on his return to Spain he brought 10 Indians, many parrots and other birds of bright plumage, the skins of strange animals, plants unknown to people of the old world, and precious ornaments gathered from the chieftains whom he had met.

One of the Indians died at sea. Three were sick to accompany Columbus to Barcelona, where King Ferdinand and Queen Isabella awaited him. So, when he faced the sovereigns, he presented the six remaining natives, whom he had bedecked in robes and ornaments of gold.

The scene of this presentation appears on the 10-cent stamps of the series issued by the United States in 1893 in commemoration of the 400th anniversary of the discovery of America. It is taken from a fresco by Luigi Gregori, at the University of Notre Dame.

Brain Twizzlers

By Prof. J. D. Flint

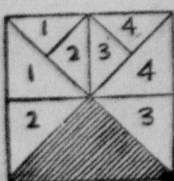

A busy doctor had a special arrangement with a taxicab company to be driven from his home to his office each morning and back again in the evening. A flat rate of two dollars for the round trip had been agreed upon.

One morning the doctor picked up a friend half-way between his home and the office and gave him a ride. It happened that the friend had his office in the same building and that evening they met leaving the building so the doctor gave him a ride back to the same point where he had picked him up in the morning. They had difficulty deciding what the friend's correct share of the day's cab bill should be. What was it.

"Cute As Bug's Ear," Is View Of Fair Co-eds

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Cal. (UP)—The selection by the co-eds of Stanford university of Jimmy Coffis, left halfback, as the most popular man on the Stanford football team constitutes a violation of every tenet heretofore laid down as constituting the feminine viewpoint for the ideal man. A few of the reasons given in the canvass of the 600 co-eds for Coffis' popularity are:

"He's as cute as a bug's ear."

"He's so darn little."

"Hes not concited."

"He's cute and doesn't know it."

Others chose him because of his curly hair, his dark brown eyes, and his enthusiasm for football. He rated No. 1 in sex appeal.

with "Cab" Calloway, blonde right tackle, running second. However, other sidelights on feminine psychology in choosing their ideal man on a football team included:

"He belongs to my brother's frat."

"He gave us chewing gum one day."

"Because he dissected my first frog in biology."

Still other votes for Coffis were due to his "adorable crooning."

From a man's point of view Coffis is popular because he is only 5 1/2 feet tall, is "peppy" and has been responsible for several touchdowns.

The Bible has been reprinted more than any other book. Each of the early printers inaugurated his career by running off a few copies of the Bible, as if to insure success in his future publications.

OIL TAX ISSUE WILL BE FACED BY OKLAHOMANS

TULSA, Okla., (UP)—The fabulous oil industry of Oklahoma, which since 1897 has produced nearly 4,000,000,000 barrels of oil, is on the defensive against increased taxation.

Although the industry's leaders charge they are unjustly and exorbitantly taxed now, it is believed the state legislature will consider imposing additional levies when it convenes in January.

The first production of any consequence was discovered in Oklahoma near Bartlesville 39 years ago. Since then according to estimates of H. B. Fell, executive vice president of the Independent Petroleum Association of America, Oklahoma has produced about 3,902,000,000 barrels of oil.

The average price for this oil over the 39-year period is $1.36 a barrel, according to Fell. Thus the total wealth produced by oil in this state is estimated at $5,300,000,000.

How much money the industry has paid in taxes to the state is impossible to determine because of the different city and county taxes on various phases of producing, refining and marketing, and because the major companies are organized not on a state but a nationwide basis.

The base tax today is the 5 per cent gross production levy on crude oil, assessed by the state in lieu of an ad valorem tax on known oil reserves. Another tax which is levied by the industry is the 4 cent state levy on retail gasoline sales. Although this tax is paid by the consumer, oil men oppose it on the ground that it increases the price of their product and thus reduces sales.

Until a few years ago taxation was not a pressing problem for the industry. This was true because the industry was piling up profits and secondly, because the state had adequate revenue to finance its activities.

Today neither of these conditions holds. The oil industry is emerging from a series of lean years and the state government is faced with expanding activities.

Thus the legislature, forced to seek new sources of revenue, is faced to face with the problem of increasing taxes on its greatest industry. Proponents of higher taxation point out that oil is a natural resource; that it will some day be exhausted; and that in Oklahoma alone it poured more than $5,300,000,000 into the pockets of those who discovered, produced and sold it.

The industry, on the other hand, argues that oil is no more a natural resource than land, buildings or other real property; that there is plenty of oil in sight for many years to come; and that only a small part of the total value of oil produced remained as net profit to corporations.

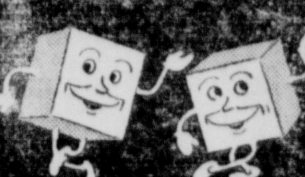

But despite these arguments, the question of where to find additional taxes to meet the rising cost of state government remains.

FINANCIAL AND MARKET NEWS

Chicago Board of Trade

CHICAGO, Dec. 11.—(UP)—Persistently liquidation of December corn induced by increased country offerings to arrive unsettled grains on the Chicago Board of Trade today. Bulk news items in wheat and other cereals were ignored by traders who preferred to realize profits.

The recent advance of prices to new high levels has brought corn out of the producing areas in rather large volume despite colder weather. In futures in foreign markets was ignored by wheat traders. Although the volume of transactions in the December delivery was light persistent selling of this contract had a depressing effect on the others. The market was buoyed by importers and renewed confidence of drought in the southwest, but prices reacted again after a brief rally.

THE KING'S ABDICATION

Giving up the throne and at least the titular leadership of the British Empire is a move which may have a profound effect upon millions of people.

For years King Edward showed he was not a man who demanded difficult tasks for himself to accomplish. He was a playboy and did not assume responsibility. His own personal feelings, pleasures and temporary enjoyments were paramount in his course of actions. He thought of Edward instead of his people. In spite of the fact that he appeared to be sympathetic, he had no practical way of helping bring about conditions that would make better living standards possible. He was not a thinker but a pleasant, agreeable, good fellow.

As an example of his selfishness, one recalls a simple act the King indulged in on a yachting trip. He took 3000 golf balls with him and drove them off the boat into the water for practice.

As Gasset says in The Revolt of the Masses, "a man is uncivilized, barbaric, in the degree in which he does not take others into account. Barbarism is a tendency to disassociation."

King Edward did not intelligently take into account the rights of his subjects, when he destroyed several thousand dollars worth of golf balls just to entertain and amuse his personal fancy.

King Edward did not understand the laws of cooperation, the laws of economics, the laws of production. He did not realize that the food, shelter and indulgences the workers consumed to produce the rubber for the golf balls could not be used to reduce the cost of living for his poverty-stricken subjects. Had the time and energy of the workers who produced the golf balls been used in producing the food, shelter and comforts of life, which are so badly needed by a great majority of English subjects, the real cost of food, shelter and comforts would have been reduced and all his working people would have benefited.

For the 20 years of life that the King was rollicking and frolicking as Prince of Wales, he was so selfish, or so ignorant, that he never thought through what real leadership, or cooperation, consisted of. He was content to amuse and entertain himself. When his opportunity came for leadership, his past life did not qualify him for the responsibility.

Of course, it is important who will succeed King Edward VIII; not only to the people of England, but to all the world. If his brother is more intelligent and more considerate, of the rights of other people, then it is well that King Edward has abdicated. We do not believe he can be more revolting and more selfish than King Edward was. Probably the world is better off or the King's abdication.

THE UNDEVELOPED NATURAL RESOURCES

It is customary now to hear it repeatedly said that the government must regulate competition and business because the frontiers are pretty well settled.

Those who make this contention do not seem to realize that now the frontiers are of unsettled land but are deep under the round. A few years ago the resources below the surface were of little value. Twenty years ago, to go down 3500 feet was quite an accomplishment. Now, with the rotary method of drilling, it is common to go 10,000 feet to find the natural resources of the country.

Of course the natural resources cannot be developed by an individual without capital. Neither could the raw undeveloped test be developed into comfort and abundant life without men with capital. It was life of hardships and sacrifices. Our undeveloped frontiers are here—the natural resources on the surface and now below the ground and the use of the air for radio and airplanes, are frontiers that were not known years ago.

GENERAL HUGH S. JOHNSON

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—The decision of the supreme court, sustaining the state statutes which limit the fixing of retail prices of trade-marked articles, is being hailed as another step in the piecemeal reconstruction of NRA. That the exact reverse of fact, NRA is besieged with efforts to limit that provision in the codes. "We never permitted," said one of these commentators, "the cost of these commodities to be fixed by the government. It is to be said on both sides of this argument. But there is one which seems sufficient to y against price-fixing. In the modern art of trade it is almost axiomatic that if you have sufficient money—this means money—if you have a gambler's urge, a saint's patience and a mart hallowing artist; if you have the method to get your stuff into the shelves everywhere so will surely be there before the verting begins to pull (this is dispensable)—then you can take a few cents worth of this-and-that, and in a "wow" of a package as much as the package itself will get through the mail, give a knockout name like "Shikar," price it at a dollar-and-a-half, and if your patience and your resistance equal your bank account, you can cash in on a massive scale. That isn't true of every proprietary product. But it has been done.

Now, of course, even that gives employment to people, puts money into circulation and it ought to add to the gaiety of nations. But if the ultimate national aim is to get as many of the necessities and real conveniences of life to the greatest number of people, by making the insufficient purchasing power produce as much as possible, this price-freezing formula is bad business.

Frequently the principal result of the maintenance of a resale price is to insure getting the money necessary for the unceasing ballyhoo—to make certain that the customers will continuously pay the cost of their continuous being tricked. You couldn't do such a thing with a staple product, which even the dumbest prospective buyer knows can't be very different whether produced by one manufacturer or another. But boy, what you can't do with something around which you can create a faint atmosphere of erotic magic, positive or negative! It's a racket. The only field where price regulation in the retail trade was found in NRA to be justified is where price-cutting below cost is used by larger commercial units—either to destroy smaller ones and wipe out competition; or as a lure to get the public into a store by widely publicizing an absurdly low price on some particular product, and then making up the loss by marking up other products above the competitive range. One of these practices is predatory and monopolistic, and the other is unfair and deceptive. Dogmatic price maintenance, are universal. In the bituminous coal industry, in 1933, price-fixing was an absolute necessity to rescue a moribund industry and to keep 400,000 people from starving to death.

Right alongside of it was the petroleum industry, equally clamorous for fixed price. Here it was neither necessary nor justified. All that was required was to put some restriction on the suicidal and headlong withdrawal of an expendable and limited natural resource. When that was done, price rose to the point of reasonable profit, and as great a crisis as that in bituminous coal was averted by an altogether different method. In the general case, price-fixing is anti-social. But like every rule applied to the infinite variety of circumstance in a nation of 125,000,000 people, there are emergencies and exceptions where the reverse of the general rule is right. Hugh S. Johnson, (Copyright, 1936, by United Feature Syndicate, Inc. Reproduction in whole or part forbidden. All rights reserved.)

FIRST AID PLUS

Half of Santa Ana's city police force this week began renewal of its training in Red Cross first aid as a means of keeping up, not only with its present knowledge, but as a means of improving its expertness.

As before, when all of the officers studied the courses and won emblems giving them rating as experts in first aid, Dr. James Farrage is heading the instructions. A plan is being worked out to put the local police department into team competition with other first aid organizations. Some day the local officers will be winning laurels in such competition. They have the urge to learn. Anyone who has the urge to learn, wins laurels eventually.

Keeping up with one's present knowledge as well as advancing one's knowledge, requires constant practice, constant renewal of studies. Eventually, Santa Ana's police department will establish an enviable record in first aid. And it will be deserving of that record.

NAVAL ADVANCE

The average citizen naturally measures a navy's strength in terms of its fighting ships. A naval strategist has other standards. Prosaic things like drydocks, naval yards, and so on figure very largely in his calculations.

So it is that the American navy plans to spend $15,000,000 on the most amazing floating drydock ever designed. This craft will be more than 1000 feet long and 165 feet wide. It will have a pointed bow, and a stern gate which can be opened so that fighting ships can be taken aboard.

It will accommodate the largest naval vessels, including the giant aircraft carriers Lexington and Saratoga. It can be towed at a speed of 10 knots—something absolutely unheard of for structures of this type.

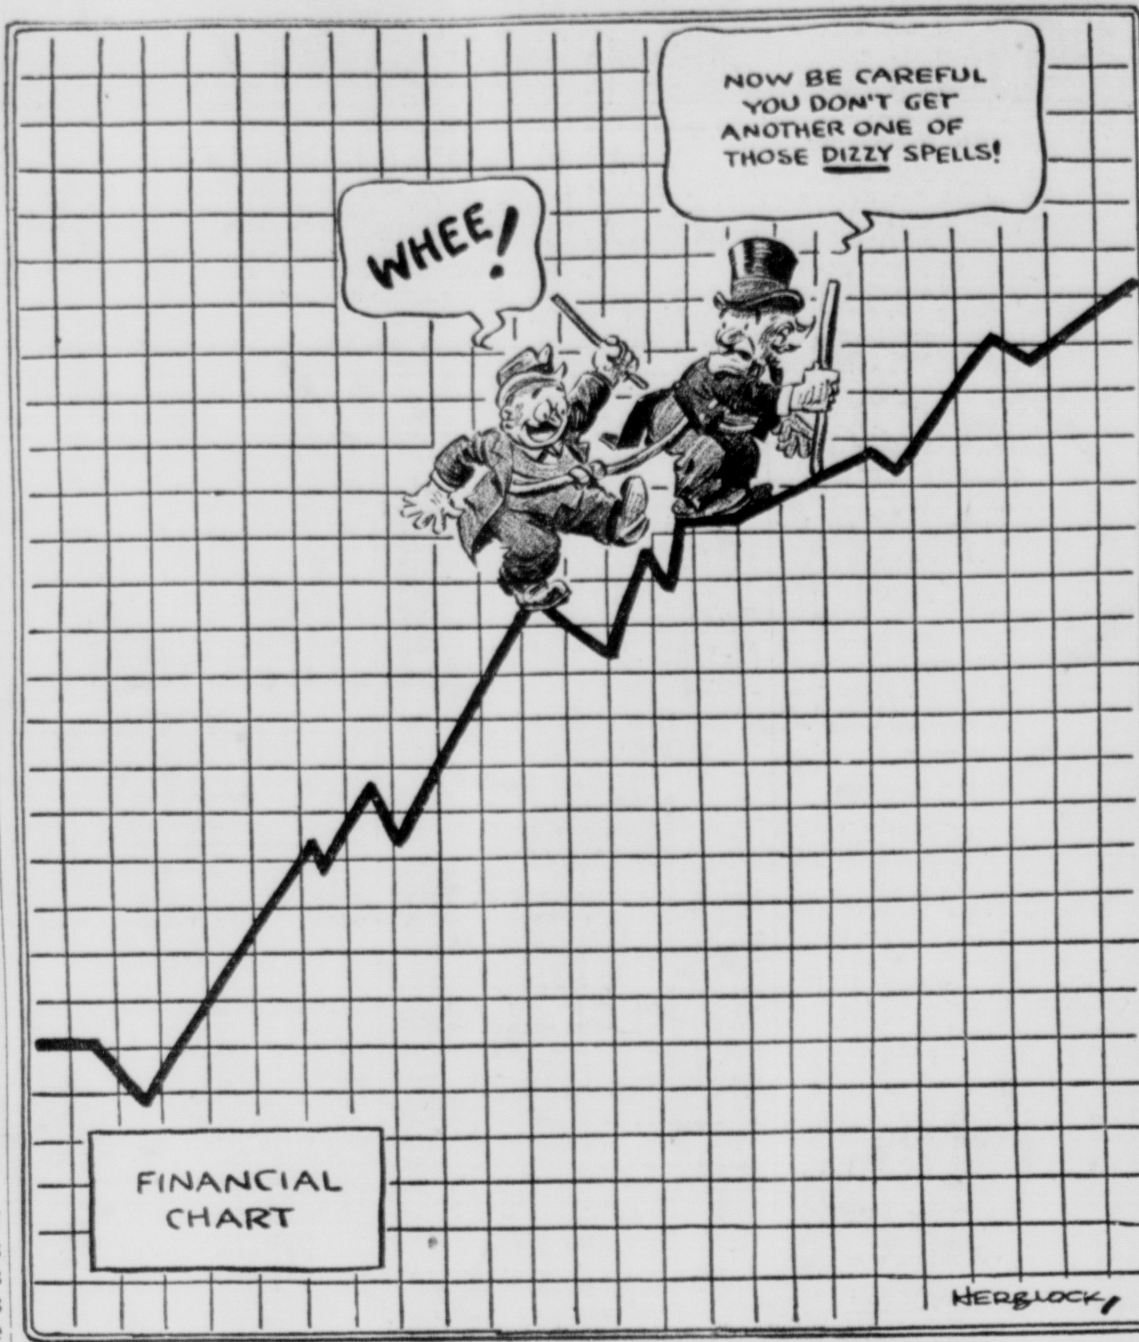

This will make little stir in the mind of the layman. To naval strategists it is one of the most interesting developments in recent naval history. For if it works it will enable a fleet to make its base wherever it finds a deep harbor.

It will give the navy a flexibility and a freedom from fixed bases such as no naval commander heretofore has ever thought possible.

FORCES OF ENTHUSIASM

Much has been spoken and written through the ages about the accomplishments of a combination of enthusiasm and cooperation. It is quite probable that these two invaluable human attributes have done as much as anything else that is at the service of the brain of man, to build a progressive attitude for civilization and posterity. Informal inquiries in the last few days reveal that Santa Ana has a particularly pleasant example of these two forces, and what they can do when directed to the upbuilding of any part of the community. We speak directly of the spirit of the congregation, and the early work of committees of the First Presbyterian Church of Santa Ana, not, of course, because such things have never occurred before, but primarily because it is the latest manifestation of enthusiasm and cooperation in the community that has resulted in a really worthwhile accomplishment. In directing work toward the goal of constructing a new $50,000 sanctuary of worship, all members of the congregation, it was learned, gave every ounce of backing possible to the initial committees. This moral support, which, after all, was nothing more and nothing less than enthusiasm and cooperation, was felt by the committee members. They did the rest. Now, they and the community are to have a beautiful new edifice that will stand as a true ideal, and not as a monument to too heavy a burden on any individual or group of individuals. In short, The Register feels that if the same forces were put to play as inspired the church project to carry on to a great success, in all walks of life, there would be less failures and countless more public benefits.

Getting Up Into the Higher Altitudes Again

News Behind The News

By Paul Mallon

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—Ridiculous aspects of the Simpson affair have impressed statesmen here. How anything like that could have occurred in a major nation supposed to be as calm and firm as the rock of Gibraltar is something they cannot understand. Ten years ago, they say, the matter would have been handled summarily, without such a public display.

The answer suggested by one official recently returned from abroad, goes deeper than popular conception of the situation. It is this:

The fever of a majority of people in England is running at a wartime temperature. It is even more pronounced in other nations of Europe. The only thing they seem to be interested in is armaments. They get that idea from statesmen at the top. Anything old, such as customs or ideals, are secondary to immediate necessities, such as govern their lives as in war times. The only really important thing is guns, guns, guns. They think guns will make them safe.

GOLD-ACTION—

The interpretation is tremendously important to the United States, not because it indicates war but because of present economic effect. It means those gold imports which were worrying President Roosevelt so much before he went to South America are not going to diminish and probably will increase. With all Europe in its present state of mind, there is no logical place for investment to go, except into the United States, where comparative security is offered.

A very good reason exists for suspecting that the authorities here have consequently decided to approach Britain and invite her to take some action to restrict the exports of gold to this country. Such things seldom are. But there are ways for Treasury Secretary Morgenthau to communicate with foreign officials outside official channels. Such a step would offer much better possibilities than amending the capital gains tax or putting a new domestic tax on foreign investments. One competent authority says a tax was tried once and resulted in 80 per cent evasions.

GUN RANGE—

Lloyd's reason for banning further insurance against war damage is the same as is causing secret concern in every war office in the world, the airplane.

Technical improvements in war planes are coming so fast that professional war makers, as well as insurance adjusters, have had to revise their plans frequently. No one would expect the improvements will know where of the relationship value of men, ships, guns are being changed daily. Old limited fighting zones have been expanded limitlessly. Places formerly considered remote from danger have become vulnerable. The destructive effect of the bombings of Madrid is said to have frightened Lloyd's managers, who envisioned what could possibly be done to London.

However, you may have noticed Lloyd's is still continuing anti-war insurance on the high seas. Apparently the managers did not fear an immediate war as much as the devastating possibilities of the airplane, if there is a war.

The authorities here are somewhat skittish about what will happen next April, when the thaw sets in along the Russian border in the Far East, but they are still banking on war next year.

DISSATISFACTION—

Some talk is heard about Chester Davis resigning from the federal reserve board and taking Redford Tugwell's vacated job as under-secretary of agriculture. It may not work out that way. M. L. Wilson, now an assistant secretary, seems to be first choice.

It is not yet known on the outside, but Davis offered to resign during the presidential campaign. Other members of the board criticized his political activity, which was not in keeping with the official detachment of the board. He had him up. Possibly they were mindful of the fact that his political energy was being exerted on the right side.

However, there seems to be a distinct possibility that he will get out sometime.

NOTES—

Note—Federal reserve boards are not supposed to be in business either, but Governor Eccles is still a nominal head of that sugar company out west. . . . The CCC is reported to be trying to decide whether it will be an educational movement or a forest conservation agency. Mr. Roosevelt will decide, undoubtedly in favor of conservation. . . . The National Youth Administration is planning to start a few girls' CCC camps. The last experiment in that line failed because they tried to run it like a girls' finishing school, among other things. . . . SEC Commissioner Landis does not seem to be deterred by the frosty reception given his speech to the investment bankers, advising them that the coming boom was their baby. It is apparently destined to be a homeless waif. . . . There are about 50 lawyers in Prof. Tugwell's rural resettlement legal division who may be candidates for the relief rolls after January 1.

Little Benny's

BY LEE PAPE

Today I kept wondering what finally happened to Mr. Riley's snake he told me about yesterday, and after school I went around to the firehouse to ask him, and he said, "O yes, I didn't finish telling you about Oola, did I?"

No sir, you just getting up to the part about how you lost her, I said, and Mr. Riley said, "Ah, that unfortunate misunderstanding, that unfortunate misunderstanding, that I hate to even think about it, but you mite as well know the whole story. Well, little Oola got to be more and more of a pet. She was a pretty little thing, about a foot and a half long, with the daintiest waistline I ever saw on a snake, or a person either, for that matter. She made friends easily, and it wasn't long before all the children in the neighborhood were running in to play with her, he said.

What did they play? I said, and Mr. Riley said, "Hide and seek, mostly, and Oola was always it, because naturally it was easy for her to hide in the most remarkable places, and that made the game more exciting. I've seen those kids hunt and hunt for half an hour, and here Oola would be up one of the boys' trouser legs all the time. She was especially fond of children but she really liked everybody with one exception, and that was the ice man. I thawt it was quite snobbish of her to hiss at him so disdainfully every morning, until I found out why, he said.

G. why, Mr. Riley I said, and he said, "Well, I began to suspect that he was overcharging me, so I checked up on him and discovered I was paying for twice as much hie as I received. Nothing makes me so furious as to be overcharged, and I said to that ice man, 'You get out and stay out, you're a snake. Of course I didn't mean it literally, and I could of bitten my tongue off the moment I said it, because Oola was rite rite out of the kitchen and out of the house and out of my life forever. Come around again, any time, Mr. Riley said. Meaning goodbye.

MUCKRAKING COLLEGE ATHLETES

Another football season is ended. The annual athletic stock-taking is under way, with the rooters and the reformers again matching wits.

Football, like business and the business cycle, comes in for its periodic phases of reconsideration and house cleaning.

We have gone far in the direction of clean sport since the days of brazenly bought teams and the tramp athlete.

The struggle to divest college football of bootleg professionalism and to ground it in honest amateurism has been, in essence, the same fight that enlightened doctors, lawyers, and business men have waged for decency of standards and practice in their fields.

I suspect that progress towards decency in college football, conditioned as elsewhere by the factor of human weakness, has been the same as in these other fields.

Most business men are not buccaners. Most lawyers are not shysters. Most doctors are not quacks.

But the buccaners, the shysters, and the quacks get the spotlight and tend to throw even the most decent of their colleagues under popular suspicion. It is good that they get the spotlight. The black sheep of any field deserves the most pitiless publicity that can be given them. But intelligence will not indict the whole for the sins of a part of any enterprise.

I am inclined to think that college athletics is about 85 per cent genuine in adherence to professed standards. It is the remaining 15 per cent that is the bone of contention in the periodic investigations of the athletic problem.

After nearly 12 years of first hand contact with intercollegiate athletic problems, I am convinced that the real problem confronting American universities in the field of football and allied sports is to be sure that, while policing the 15 per cent, they are making the best of the 85 per cent university game part of the total university enterprise of disciplining the bodies, minds, and characters of their students.

I shall speak more directly of this problem tomorrow.

OUR CHILDREN

BY ANGELO PATRI

YOUTH'S LONGINGS

"You know what I want for my birthday, mother?"

"What? Something pretty to wear?"

"Well, not exactly, but you're near it."

"Near it. Let me see. Near it. If you are not going to wear it, you must be going to use it. A new pair of skates? Tennis racket? No? I give up."

"Will you 'give it to me if I tell you?"

"O, you'll have to tell me first. I can't buy a pig in a poke."

"Well, will you if you can?"

"Of course."

"I'm afraid you will think I ought not to have it. It's a vanity case. You know, a silver one with a compact and a lipstick and everything. Will you, mother? I'm crazy to have one. Leila has one, and she always looks so nice."

"Leila," thought mother. "That poor, misguided, helpless little thing. Dressed like a mannequin. Painted, powdered, curled like a girl on a magazine cover. And this wholesome youngster of thirteen wanting to look like her! As if there weren't trouble enough in the world. This girl had to come along and set the rest of the children longing to receive the attentions she was getting from the older boys."

Aloud mother said: "I'll have to think this over. I did not think you were interested in that sort of girl, she's not at all attractive to my way of looking."

"M-m-m-m-m, she's beautiful. If only I could look like her—"

"God forbid!" said mother hastily. "Give yourself time to grow up. Be a girl before you try to be a woman. That will come soon enough. Leila isn't a little girl; she's something in between a girl and a young lady."

"Well, I don't care. If I can't have that I don't want anything. I don't think it's fair. I can't have things all the other girls have and I never have any fun and I don't care, so there."

The longing to be like the smartest looking, loudest talking, forward one of the group is characteristic. Nothing we can say will change that. The longing to be grown up, to be noticed and courted, to be popular with the other boys and girls of the group, is acute and no amount of grown-up wisdom poured upon the fever will change its temperature in the least. All a parent can do is to accept the state of affairs as characteristic, do what is possible to comfort and redirect the child's interests.

The little girl had her birthday party, her presents and, to take the ache from her heart a little, a dainty box of powder with an assortment of gay puffs. That helped while it did not cure completely the longing to be like the belle of the town. It is strange that the one precocious boy or girl in the group seems to eliminate the others in the mind of each. "All the others do it, or have it, or wear it," when but this one unfortunate child is the only one. All a parent can do is bide his time patiently, hold on to his reason, until the phase passes.
